ROOSEVELT SEES FRAUD IN DEFEAT

Colonel Declares His Inspectors Were Thrown Out in New York Primary Taft Wins, 83 to 7

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Manager Robert B. Gordon of the national Harmon headquarters today announced that Governor Harmon will not permit his name to go before he tMassachusetts primaries on April 30.

Colonel Roosevelt is crying "fraud" over the results of the primaries in New York and Indiana. Taft literally snowed him under.

Colonel Roosevelt denounces the New York county machine as "scandalous." Before leaving New York city on his Western trip the Colonel said:

"There has never been anything more scandalous than the way the county machine is conducting this fight for President Taft in New York County. They first threw out all the inspectors who were known to favor my candidacy, and I have just received word that the Roosevelt watchers were thrown out at the polling places."

John Duell, chairman of the Roosevelt New York committee, threatens to move to have the primary set aside and a new one ordered.

As a result of the claims of unfairness resulting from the Taft-Roosevelt primaries, Senator Stillwell introduced a bill at Albany today which gives the Supreme Court the power to call a new primary election in cases where it can be shown that voters have been disfranchised. Governor Dix sent a special message to the Legislature urging it to make changes in the primary law.

Practically complete returns show New York will send a delegation to the Republican national convention that will vote as follows: Taft, 83; Roosevelt, 7.

The Taft forces elected every candidate for State committeeman and district leader. Interest in the Democratic situation was swamped by the excitement over the Republican battle. In two districts contested in Manhattan and in several Brooklyn fights, the Tammany forces won.

Colonel Loses at Harvard.

Harvard University students treat Roosevelt, one of their own alumni, harshly in a straw ballot. The Colonel ran a poor third. President Taft was first, with Woodrow Wilson second. The vote:

Candidate	1st choice	2nd choice	Total
Taft	783	330	1113
Wilson	432	486	918
Roosevelt	488	272	760
La Follette	52	213	265
Harmon	53	181	234

Hughes	43	69	112
Clark	26	82	108
Debs	58	25	83
Cummins	7	22	29
Bryan	7	12	19
Foss	5	5	10

The first presidential nomination papers filed in Somerville are for Roosevelt. They were filed today by Alderman Arthur W. Glines, President of the Somerville Roosevelt Club. He filed two sets of papers, one for the regular Roosevelt list of delegates-at-large, the other for eighth Congressional district delegates—former Mayor Leonard B. Chandler and Senator Charles H. Brown of Medford.

La Follette Starts.

The La Follette campaign in Massachusetts is on. The Wisconsin Senator will be here early next month. Meanwhile his Bay State campaign is being handled by Obert Sletten of Lacrosse, Wis., a third-year student in Harvard Law School. La Follette headquarters have been opened at No. 60 State street, in charge of L. H. Boneill, Jr. Nomination papers are there to sign. Other La Follette papers are available at No. 45 Cornhill (Livy S. Richards), at No. 3 Joy street (F. H. Hartman) and at No. 11 Howard street, Cambridge (Mr. Sletten).

Mrs. Glendower Evans, the social worker and economist, is a La Follette boomer. She is a close friend of Mrs. La Follette and is paying the expenses of a La Follette canvasser in Essex County.

There will be Roosevelt meetings tonight at the headquarters of the Republican city committee of Lowell and in Waltham under auspices of the Swedish-American Republican Club of that city.

New Law Tested.

The one feature of the new primary law during its first test demonstrated that, under its provisions, the party in power can perpetuate its control of the State or city government indefinitely.

According to figures given out by President Taft's managers at Republican headquarters, the result in the thirteen Congressional districts in New York county in which there were contests between the Taft and Roosevelt forces were as follows, with more than 330 election districts to be heard from:

Cong. Dist.	Taft.	Roosevelt.
Eleventh	1572	718

British Miners to Vote on Wage Bill: End of Strike Near Asquith Wins Important Victory; Men Anxious to Return to Work.

LONDON, March 27.—The government won its first important victory in the coal strike negotiations today, when the Federated Miners' Union adopted a resolution to put the question of accepting or rejecting the minimum wage bill to a ballot of the rank and file of the miners.

Thousands of striking miners are tired of idleness and weary of the suffering it has entailed, and are anxious to return to work. Consequently, Premier Asquith is confident that the referendum vote will be largely in favor of the bill.

At a second meeting this afternoon the Miners' Federation decided to take the referendum ballot immediately, completing the vote by April 3. Dispatches from Wales state that the Welsh miners will vote almost to a man to accept the government bill. As a result of warnings from the Welsh leaders the Federation decided to make no recommendation to the mass of miners as to how they should vote on the proposition.

The victory of the government was made complete when the mine owners met in conference and voted unanimously to accept the minimum wage bill offered by the government.

Rock Island Mayor Barely Escapes an Assassin's Bullet

Shot at Standing in Doorway of Police Station of City Where Militia Curbs Mob.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., March 27.—While State troops were patrolling the streets today to prevent a recurrence of the mob attack which resulted in the killing of two men and the wounding of nine others last night, an attempt was made to assassinate Mayor H. M. Schriver.

The Mayor narrowly escaped death or severe injury. The would-be assassin escaped.

The two companies of militia, which arrived early in the day, were later joined by two other companies.

The attempt to kill the Mayor was made when he was standing in the doorway of the police station. A shot was fired at Mr. Schriver by someone apparently hidden on the roof or in the upper story of a nearby building. The bullet hit the wall a few inches from the Mayor's head.

Mayor Schriver recently began a campaign to rid the city of undesirable persons, so he announced, but his enemies declared he wanted to oust his political enemies. Mutterings of discontent have been growing for several days.

Wives or Ballot? Men Must Choose

1,600 Philadelphians, Separated From Spouses, Will Have to Make Up or Shun Polls.

PHILADELPHIA, March 27.—Sixteen hundred men in this city, separated from their wives, either must go back to them or lose their votes at the next election. That's the ukase of the County Commissioners of Registration.

If the wives will not take them back, then the luckless men are disfranchised. This peculiar situation was brought about by a ruling that voters who are married must register from the domicile of their wives.

William F. Rorke, a lawyer, whose wife lives in Germantown, tried to vote from his home on Seventh street.

"Does your wife live there?" he was asked.

"No, my wife lives in Germantown—we're separated."

"Then you vote in Germantown. Where your wife is there your vote is."

Today the 1,600 separated husbands seriously considered whether it was better to remain wifeless or voteless.

HANGS HIMSELF FOR REMORSE

Brockton Young Man Who Had Grieved His Mother Ends His Life.

BROCKTON, March 27.—Walter A. McKay, twenty three years old and a member of a prominent family in this city, hanged himself in the room of his home early today.

Remorse because he had grieved his mother in going with young men whom she did not like, it is believed, drove him to the act.

The McKays live at No. 328 Copeland street. Walter was the favorite and one of the most promising of the children. Two years ago he began to get into bad company.

His mother remonstrated with him. He promised to reform, and did so. Lately he began to dissipate again. This almost broke his mother's heart. When young McKay realized that he had grieved his mother he decided to put an end to his life.

He hanged himself to the door of his room with his leather belt.

$30,500,000 WORTH OF STEEL BONDS ARE SOLD TO MORGAN

NEW YORK, March 27.—The sale of $30,500,000 worth of bonds of the United States Steel Corporation was announced by Judge Elbert H. Gary today. The bonds were purchased by J. P. Morgan & Co. on the basis of five and one-tenth per cent. interest. Fifteen million dollars worth of the issue is secured on the Indiana Steel Plant at Gary, Ind., $10,000,000 on the Lorain Steel Plant at Lorain, Ohio, and $5,500,000 by debentures of the Illinois Steel Company.

BLIND WORKERS ARE LED OUT AS FIRE RAGES NEAR

Fire on the roof of a two-story frame building at No. 402 East Fifth street, South Boston, in the rear of the cane factory of the Perkins Institute for the Blind, caused $200 damage. The building was owned by the Perkins Institution. The several hundred blind people employed in the cane factory were led out of the building and they stood on the veranda of the institution until the fire was put out.

SUFFRAGE WINS IN MICHIGAN SENATE

LANSING, Mich., March 27.—With only five votes against it, the resolution providing for women's suffrage passed the State Senate. The resolution required a two-thirds majority and it obtained 23 out of 28 votes. It is believed to have an excellent chance of passing the House also. At the last regular session the same resolution received a majority in the House, but it lacked a couple of votes of the necessary two-thirds vote.

EX-MAYOR GREEN IS BADLY HURT BY FALL

Samuel A. Green, former Mayor of Boston, who is eighty-two years of age, while out for a walk today fell to the street at the corner of Kneeland and Washington streets, and received injuries to his left hip, so severe that he was unable to walk.

An ambulance was called from the Lagrange street station and the aged man was taken to the City Hospital. It was decided to use the X-rays to ascertain the extent of the injury. Mr. Green lives at No. 60 Harvard street, South End.

MADISON SQ. GARDEN STAYS INDEFINITELY

NEW YORK, March 27.—Madison Square Garden is to remain. It was decided yesterday by the Foreign and Domestic Company that now controls the property, that the structure will stand for at least three years, and probably indefinitely. The controlling company has examined the assets and prospects that the property represents, and has decided there is every reasonable prospect for the Garden to remain a success.

PRESIDENT THANKS "SUMMER NEIGHBORS"

President Taft, through his secretary, has sent a letter to the political club in Beverly named in his honor, in which he says:

"Thank all my Summer neighbors for their kindly expression."

Recently the club adopted resolutions indorsing the President.

WOMAN GOES FREE; NOT MRS. MULLIGAN

After being convinced that the woman arrested in Portsmouth, N. H., was not Mrs. Bessie Mulligan, wanted for the killing of her husband in August, 1910, in the house at No. 21 Dix Place, this city, Chief Dugan of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation today ordered her discharge from custody.

RIVER BURSTS INTO SUBWAY AT BERLIN

BERLIN, March 27.—The great subway tunnel under the Spree River caved in today. Eighty laborers working on the tube extension, heard the roar of the water and fled to the nearest hoists, being whisked out of the working just as they filled with water. The damage will exceed $1,000,000.

B. & M. ENGINEER RESIGNS.

F. E. Sampson of Portsmouth, N. H., has resigned as division engineer of the fifth engineering division of the Boston & Maine Railroad. He will be succeeded by Charles B. Chevalier.

ROORBACK IN MELLEN AIM AT GRAND TRUNK

While He Sends Workers to State House to Charge Bad Faith, His Own Union Men Are in Session to Make Him Keep His Word.

Boston & Maine Railroad employes resented today the action of certain employes of the New York, New Haven & Hartford system, or their representatives, in appearing before the legislative Committee on Railroads and speaking against the Grand Trunk's treatment of its men.

The Boston & Maine operatives say that this attack on the Grand Trunk was instigated by President Mellen of the New Haven system, against whom the Boston & Maine operatives have accumulated grievances.

The Boston & Maine men think that any protest against Grand Trunk treatment of its men comes with ill grace when inspired by President Mellen, who is the very subject of complaint by some of his own employes.

Forty Boston & Maine operatives, representing every department of that road, were in session at the Quincy House today. They have been trying for four weeks to get the New Haven road to follow out the terms of an agreement which it made with Boston & Maine employes when the New Haven road absorbed the Boston & Maine.

Away from Homes for Week.

The terms made with the Boston & Maine men at that time included the stipulation that ten hours and a 100-mile run should constitute a day's work.

The men declare this rule, a vital one to them, has been violated in every possible way.

Men on runs in the western part of the State declare they have not seen their homes for a week at a time.

The agreement also provides for thirty-day notice of any change in the working plan. Many changes have been put in force without a notice of thirty days or anything like it.

These are the principal grievances. The men declare that there are many others.

They maintain that, until the New Haven line has amicable and just relations with its own employes, especially those who were given a plain agreement, it should refrain from direct or indirect attack on the relations between the Grand Trunk and its men.

MELLEN HURLS A DEFIANCE TO THE GRAND TRUNK

Attorney William H. Coolidge, for the New Haven and Boston & Maine, talked to the members of the Railroad Committee for two hours at the State House today, telling them why the Grand Trunk railway ought not to be let into Boston.

Much that Coolidge said out loud and with much detail today had already been said in "questions" addressed by members of the Railroad Committee to railroad men and others who came favoring the great Canadian trunk line. The feeling is general at the State House that the Railroad Committee has been against the Grand Trunk from the beginning and that the commercial bodies which want the new railroad for New England must fight for it before the Legislature.

Coolidge had two big propositions to demonstrate today:

1.—That it is not the mighty Grand

GOVERNOR FOSS' NOMINATIONS SENT TO THE COUNCIL

Governor Foss today renominated Edward W. Brewer of Boston for clerk of the West Roxbury District Court. The nomination was sent in to the Executive Council, which held its regular weekly meeting today, together with the following other nominations: Margaret Smith, Taunton, trustees Taunton State Hospital; Edmund G. Eldridge, Oak Bluffs, public administrator, vice Everett A. Davis, resigned; William J. Heffner, Gilbertville, associate medical examiner, Tenth Worcester District; James P. Doran, New Bedford, special justice Third District Court of Bristol; James E. Cunneen, Fall River, trustee Bradford Durfee Textile School.

PARDON SLAYER OF LITTLE GIRL

The Executive Council, with the approval of Governor Foss, today pardoned Thomas Lowe of North Andover, who has served twenty-eight years of a life sentence at State's prison for the murder of ten-year-old Nellie Sullivan at the home of the latter's parents in North Andover. The pardon is granted with the condition that Lowe leave the country immediately after his release. The Sullivan family agreed to the pardon on this condition.

The case is unique in many respects in that the members of the Sullivan family have for a long period of years refused to favor the pardon and they have expressed themselves to former Councils as fearing untimely consequences should Lowe be pardoned.

FOSS GUEST TONIGHT OF MAYOR HATFIELD

Governor Foss will be the guest of Mayor Charles E. Hatfield at the performance of "H. M. S. Pinafore" in Players' Hall, Newton, this evening.

Law Frowns on Widow's Choice Mustn't Marry Father-in-Law

MRS. KATHERINE M. BRYER, WHO IS FORBIDDEN TO WED

Bryers Might Be Prosecuted Like Couple in "Burnham Case" Thirty Years Ago.

The unsuspected obstacle to the marriage of Mrs. Katherine M. Bryer, a comely young Belmont widow, to her father-in-law, Frank A. Bryer of Sandwich, N. H., arising because both Massachusetts and New Hampshire statutes forbid a woman marrying her husband's father, recalls the fact that a case thirty years ago led to the principals being prosecuted after marriage.

It was known as the "Burnham case." The laws of Massachusetts and New Hampshire both specify certain relationships which bar a woman from marrying. These range from her father, grandfather and other blood relatives, to her husband's father, grandfather, son or grandson.

In the "Burnham case" was violated one of these relationships that of father-in-law and daughter-in-law, it is said. After the marriage the law was set in motion to prosecute the intentional or unintentional violaters.

It will be necessary for the Bryers to go to some other State than Massachusetts or New Hampshire, one which is a little more liberal in its statutes relating to marriage of kindred.

The Bryers' Engagement.

The engagement of Mrs. Katherine M. Bryer of Belmont to her father-in-law, Frank A. Bryer of Sandwich, N. H., became known last Sunday. No general announcement had been made by the family.

Mrs. Bryer is the widow of Charles A. Bryer, who was killed by a railroad train at Trapelo road crossing, Waverley, on March 29, 1910, while driving with his young wife to her sister's wedding. Mrs. Bryer was badly hurt, but recovered.

Mrs. Bryer's mother-in-law, Mrs. Frank A. Bryer of Sandwich, died six months after her son was killed. The father-in-law, Frank A. Bryer, and the widowed daughter-in-law saw much of each other at the home of the widow's parents in Belmont. Finally they planned to wed. No date was announced, but it was understood they would marry by early Summer.

Now comes the disturbing discovery that such a marriage will be illegal in Massachusetts and New Hampshire. There is no getting around it. The statute reads in black and white as follows:

> No woman shall marry her father, grandfather, son, grandson, brother, stepfather, grandmother's husband, daughter's husband, granddaughter's husband, husband's father, husband's grandfather, husband's son, husband's grandson, brother's son, sister's son, father's brother, mother's brother.
> This prohibition shall continue notwithstanding the dissolution by death or divorce of the marriage by which the affinity was created.

Chapter 174, Section 2, of the New Hampshire laws is identical with the above Massachusetts law. Nothing but a special law would permit the marriage in either State.

"I'll Shoot Burglars Full of Sermons," Says Dr. Johnson

Threatened Pastor "Still Alive" and "Proposes to Continue Rum Shop Campaign."

"If any burglars or assassins invade my home, I'll shoot them full of—sermons!" today declared the Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, pastor of the Warren Avenue Baptist Church, who got a threat that negro toughs had been paid $200 apiece to rob his house and "do him up."

The smile of the "militant pastor" showed how little he feared for his safety because of his campaign against saloons and places of a questionable character.

"If they don't like my preaching they'd better not come," continued Dr. Johnson. "I'm still alive and I propose to continue my campaign against the rum shops in spite of threats. They can't scare me that way. I'm out for a purpose and right and justice are mighty effective weapons.

"My hat is in the ring. Why, as a matter of fact, since those public threats of violence were made, my home has been safer than it ever was before and so am I. I attended a reception at my church last evening and when I reached home on Bay State road I found there an imposing guard of newspapermen.

"I let my pet bulldog have the freedom of the house, filled a musket with mustard and pepper, and we all waited in ambush, but nothing happened and nothing will."

PRIMARY CONTEST IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

CONCORD, N. H., March 27.—A spirited session is expected tonight at the meeting of the Republican State Committee called to fix a date for the election of delegates to the national convention and arrange for a method to hold presidential preference primaries in the absence of any provision in the New Hampshire laws. Governor Robert P. Bass contends the State Committee has the power to devise an arrangement by which preferential primaries may be held, but his opponents, headed by United States Senator Gallinger, disapprove of his proposal. They claim the only way to do is to have caucus ballots labelled "Taft" or "Roosevelt."

POPE IS BETTER AND HOLDS A RECEPTION

ROME, March 27.—Pope Pius is much better today, although the catarrh from which he has suffered for several days is not yet quite cured. He resumed today the usual general audiences, which it was announced had been suspended until after Easter. He gave audiences to about 350 persons at the general reception, and also received several persons in private audience. Several American citizens were presented.

LOWELL STRIKE BATTLE; 3 ARRESTS

MerrimackCompany's Print Works Idle After Strike of 400, Injunction Hearing on Strike Fund

The first clash between the police and the strikers in Lowell took place this afternoon when the police tried to disperse a crowd of 1,500 men and women who had gathered in front of the Bigelow Carpet Company works.

Two women and one man were arrested and another man was knocked down by a policeman.

The crowd had gathered in front of the Bigelow plant in order to prevent boys from going to work. There were about 150 boys on strike there and about the same number at work. When the police started to disperse the crowd two of the women, it was said, attacked the police. They were arrested.

In the same crowd a young man was arrested. The crowd surrounded the police and their prisoner, and one daring young man made a rush for the prisoner to rescue him, while others pelted the policemen with snow and ice.

The print works run in connection with the Merrimack Manufacturing Company in Lowell, employing 1,000 operatives, shut down today, following the strike of about 400. The main part of the plant had already shut down, but the print works had been working.

More than 2,000 of the strikers marched through the streets today carrying banners and filling the air with cheers.

The outcome of the Lowell trouble cannot be anticipated at this time. The strikers and those locked out of the six big mills that are closed act as though they were having a holiday. They are well-dressed, and most of them have money in the bank.

Demand Opening of Mills.

The Board of Trade of Lowell today began a movement to try to induce the six big cotton mills which shut down as a result of a strike to re-open their doors and allow those who want to work to return. Business men complained to the Board of Trade that the shutting down of the mills would prove a big blow to business.

Arthur K. Kinsley, secretary of the Board of Trade, who with others have seen several of the mill agents and treasurers, said today:

"There are about 18,000 operatives out of work. Of this number less than 5,000 are on strike. The rest are satisfied with their present schedule of wages and want to go back.

"All of yesterday and today men and women have been telephoning me that they want to go back to work. I think that within forty-eight hours the mills will be opened and those who wish to work will go back."

The leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World who have been at Lawrence and Lowell came to Boston today to attend the injunction proceeding in the Supreme Court. The action is brought through Attorney-General Swift to compel the strike leaders in Lawrence to show their receipts and expenditures during the Lawrence strike.

Charge Misuse of Funds.

William Trautman and William D. Haywood were among those who appeared in court as defendants in the action. It is charged that much of the money contributed to the strikers was used for other purposes than those for which it was intended.

The only cotton mill running in Lowell is the Lawrence plant. This employs about 4,000 of the 20,000 operatives in that city.

All of the operatives of the Lawrence Manufacturing Company are women and girls. These workers receive a higher average of pay than those already on strike. Their work is also of a higher standard than in the other mills. The product of the mill is hosiery and underwear and it is the largest plant of its kind in the world.

The strikers in the parde today carried banners blazoned with legends and call to arms. One read:

We Want 15 Per Cent. I. W. W.

Another was longer:

Don't Worry About Us. We Help Ourselves.

Still another was:

We Want the I. W. W.

An effort is to be made, according to present plans of the strike leaders, to extend the strike in the seven big mills in Lowell to the worsted weavers in Lowell and neighborhood. Delegates from the Belvidere mill of the American Worsted Company, and from the Collinsville and Dracut "Navy Yard" plant, have been invited to attend the I. W. W. meeting today.

Today an attempt was made by the strikers to induce the finishers, who have stayed in the mills to finish their work upon some of the material now in the mills, to come out and leave the work on these goods "in the air."

STRIKE INJUNCTION HEARING IN BOSTON

The Industrial Workers of the World today pushed their efforts to effect a more complete organization among the workers. A week before the strike started there were about 2,000 I. W. W. members in the mills. Monday the number was estimated at 4,000. Today, it is believed the total has been almost doubled again. The A. F. of L. is also strongly organized in Lowell, and while they are working independently of the I. W. W., the two organizations are in fact side by side and making the same demands.

No Probe for Lawrence.

The National House will not investigate the Lawrence strike. The Rules Committee which heard the troubles of the strikers several weeks ago and was asked to favor an investigation by the Committee on Labor has decided that the publication of the hearings has had the same effect on the workers as would be had if the House investigated the strike.

Fall River Local of Stationary Firemen, who want twenty-two cents an hour, have received a reply to the effect that the Cotton Manufacturers' Association favored the firemen with an advance of 10 per cent. This is not what the firemen want and a mass meeting of mill firemen will be held Thursday evening, when action will be taken.

After more than half of the 500 employes of the Kimball Shoe Factory in Lawrence had gone on strike today, the entire plant was shut down. The strikers demand a 15 per cent. increase in wages.

MILL OWNERS' SIDE OF STRIKE TOLD BY STEPHEN T. WHITTIER

Stephen T. Whittier, secretary of the Lawrence Manufacturing Association, which includes all of the cotton mill owners of Lowell, gave an interview today, in which he stated the mill owners' side of the strike and lockout that affects 16,000 of the 20,000 mill hands in that city.

"The operatives of Lowell," said Mr. Whittier, "average more pay under the increase of between 7 and 8 per cent. than the operatives of Lawrence or Fall River.

"It is not generally known, but it is a fact that the average wages paid in the Lowell mills, prior to the increase, was $9, and under the present wage scale it is between $9.50 and $9.55 a week—and that is better than Lawrence or Fall River.

"Before taking up the question of a new schedule in Lowell, we examined the schedules in Lawrence and other cities, and were influenced by them to some extent, though the principal question that concerned us was that of operating our mills at a fair return alike to employer and employe.

Charges Intimidation.

"We have granted as much as we possibly can, and to meet representatives of these strikers, in my opinion, is a waste of time. Therefore, personally, I take the position that I shall not confer with a strikers' committee.

"Fully 90 per cent. of our employes wanted to remain at work, but they were influenced by threats. The I. W. W. men not only intimidated operatives at the mills, but they went to their homes and prevailed upon them to remain out.

"Those who received the highest increase were the first to leave the mills, showing that it was not a question of wages, but rather a question of building up the I. W. W. organization in Lowell.

"The mule spinners and the loom fixers were strongly opposed to striking and did not leave the mills until the back boys went out and made it impossible for them to keep at their work. Even then the mule spinners loyally stuck to their machines, doing both their work and that of the boys, until it became impossible for them to continue.

"So far as the immediate profits of manufacturing were concerned, the Lowell mills expected none under the new schedule of wages, for the reason that they were working on orders that had been received under the old wage schedule and would not finish such orders for several months.

Cannot Foresee the End.

"Our schedule of wages was arranged with the idea of simply paying our way on these orders and not with the idea of making any profit.

"As to the length of the strike, I may say an outsider is just as well posted as a mill agent. We take the position that we cannot reasonably be expected to open our plants until there is a general and clearly indicated demand on the part of the operatives to return to work."

DELAY ACTION ON I. W. W. BOOKS

Judge James Dunbar, representing the Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, James Prendergast and Robert A. Woods, who petitioned for an injunction to compel the I. W. W. leaders to account for the funds collected during the Lawrence strike, today waived examination of witnesses at this time, and waived also their application for a temporary injunction in the Supreme Court before Judge Hammond.

William D. Haywood, William E. Trautman, William E. Yates, Joseph Bedard and Joseph Shaheen, strike leaders, were in court.

The hearing was for the purpose of receiving the report of an examiner who has been named to go over the books and papers of the I. W. W. and ascertain just how the strike funds were spent. The examiners are still at work on the books of the relief committee and were not ready to report today.

HIGGINS GOING TO WASHINGTON ON JORDAN APPEAL

District Attorney John J. Higgins of Middlesex County will go to Washington Saturday to represent the Commonwealth of Massachusetts at the hearing on Monday, April 1, before the United States Supreme Court on the appeal of Chester S. Jordan, the convicted wife murderer. This will be Mr. Higgins' first appearance before the United States Supreme Court. The principal question before the court is whether the Superior Court judges who presided at the Jordan trial erred in denying a motion for a new trial on the ground of the insanity of a Jordan juror, Willis A. White.

IRISH LEADERS ARE PLEASED WITH HOME RULE BILL

LONDON, March 27.—Another conference to consider the final draft of the home rule bill was held at the official residence of Premier Asquith in Downing street today. In addition to the Premier, those present were John E. Redmond, chairman of the Irish party; T. P. O'Connor and John Dillon.

The Irish statesmen are said to have expressed their approbation of all the features of the measure, which will be introduced Thursday, April 11.

BLAMES HIGH STEEL TARIFF

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Julian Kennedy, known as the Edison of the structural steel industry, was the star witness today before the Stanley steel investigating committee. Chairman Stanley asked the witness if there was not some way to equalize prices of steel except by pooling agreements. Kennedy declared in his behalf a lower tariff would tend to equalize prices because it would allow foreign products to come in when there is a sudden demand for steel. Under the existing high tariff, Kennedy said, any sudden expansion of the demand results in the raising of prices.

The high tariff on tubes, Kennedy asserted, was responsible for the demoralization of prices on tubes prior to 1899. The Chinese wall of a high tariff, he added, had caused many tube concerns to spring into existence and prices were slashed in consequence. Kennedy said he had been employed about this time by J. P. Morgan to appraise all the tube plants in the country. This, he testified later, resulted in the organization by the Morgan interests of the National Tube Company, which had the effect of steadying prices.

WELLESLEY GIRLS GET MORE "PENNY STRIPS" AT LAST

After being lost in transit, the slotted pasteboard strips, each twelve inches long, which are to be used in collecting a "mile of pennies" for the student alumnae building, have been distributed among the girls at Wellesley. The girls will take these strips home with them on their Spring vacation, which begins Friday, and it is hoped hundreds of them will be filled. Each strip contains twelve pennies. Miss Edna Swope, chairman of the building committee, holds the honor of being the first one to fill a strip. On the first day that the strips were distributed, $60 was collected by the girls.

Lipton Has Rival for German Widow's Hand

LONDON, March 27.—A duel for the hand and heart of Mrs. Claire Hysted of Chicago is being fought, but not with swords, between Sir Thomas Lipton and the multimillionaire merchant, Herr Philip of Berlin.

Mrs. Hysted, herself worth millions, is of German descent. She belongs to Chicago's best set, but has lived in Paris for the last six years and was much in evidence socially until the death of her mother a few years ago.

Sir Thomas made a protracted stay in Paris recently, on his way to Monte Carlo, and all his spare minutes were devoted to the fascinating widow. Nominally he stayed at the Hotel Continental, but in reality he spent most of his time at the Meurice, where Mrs. Hysted stopped.

JOHN ARBUCKLE DIES SUDDENLY

NEW YORK, March 27.—John Arbuckle, multi-millionaire coffee and sugar magnate, died suddenly today at his home, No. 315 Clinton avenue, Brooklyn.

Mr. Arbuckle, who was over seventy years old, had been ill for several weeks, but had apparently recovered and came to his New York office from Brooklyn on Saturday. He seemed to feel the effect of his labor and remained at home on Monday. He suffered a relapse shortly after 2 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Arbuckle, with his brother, the late Charles Arbuckle, established the firm of Arbuckle Brothers in 1871. They introduced on a large scale the roasting of coffee and the sale of coffee in packages.

GRACE LETTERS BLAME WOMEN

ATLANTA, Ga., March 27.—Letters from Eugene H. Grace to his wife, containing sweeping refutations of his charges against her, have come to light here. They not only show that he made repeated calls upon her for money but he admitted that he had been a failure in a business way. He made no attempt to conceal it, but stated that his downfall had been caused by women.

"I have been a rank failure," he declares in one of these letters, "and can truthfully say it was caused by women."

Along with the letters is a typewritten agreement which Mrs. Grace has referred to as one which Grace endeavored to persuade her to sign, but which she refused to do. In this Grace attempted to have his wife agree to forfeit $25,000 in cash and her Philadelphia home "should she again speak unkindly, harshly or fuss in any manner with her lawfully wedded husband, E. H. Grace." For this part, according to the contract, Grace also "promised not to fuss unless given proper reasons for so doing."

Hit Atlanta With 25 Cents.

Showing his constant need of money, a letter is exhibited, dated at Newnan, Ga., November 2, 1911, in which Grace says:

"I hit Atlanta with just twenty-five cents. Preston Hill loaned me some money."

In a letter written the following day he says: "Honestly, I don't ask, or deserve sympathy, but my condition is deplorable and a sad one. I don't want my folks or anyone to know my shape, and, therefore, cannot get the money to come to you on. I would give most anything to be with you. I hate to say it, but I must tell you and be honest. If something does not happen within a few days so I can see or be with you, I shall not be responsible for what happens. I am getting afraid of myself, and can't hold out much longer."

The following letter was written by Grace to Mrs. Opie the day after the funeral of Webster Opie, her first husband.

My Dear Girl—I know that you now feel more at ease since your mind has been relieved of the severe ordeal you have had to undergo during the last few weeks and the only sensible thing for you to now do is look only to the future, forget your troubles and endeavor to be happy, and although certain reverses prevent me from doing what I should be happy to do, if I can in any way make your future a happy one, believe me I stand in readiness to respond to your call.

Failure Due to Women.

Of course, dear, I have absolutely nothing but a heart and my true friendship to offer any one, for I have been a rank failure in a business way during the last six months and can truthfully say it was caused by women, but I am through with them and from now henceforth will make every effort to make a man out of myself.

What I have witnessed, and I say this absolutely free of a sentimental feeling, has been a revelation to me, in that it shows the finish of such a fast living to be death. Neither shall I again drink whiskey.

I do not make the statements for your benefit, or through any affection but wholly for my welfare and for this reason I shall make every effort to adhere to them.

You can rely on me to be true blue to the core. I just want to be the kind of a friend that you can know down in the depths of your heart. If you have one true friend in the world it is I.

I want to have a good talk with you prior to your taking any steps other than consulting your lawyer and the physician in regard to the insurance. In the latter do not pledge too much to the doctor.

Upon reading this letter carefully give close thought to that which I may have said, and if you think me worthy of such a friendship as that I mention, phone me today and just say, 'I agree with what you say.'

Good night, dear; think of me a little anyway now and then.

Now as ever,

G.

In still another letter Grace writes:

Of course I was so disappointed about you not being able to get any money. I am positively not going to live in Philadelphia. I was in Atlanta today. I had picked out a dandy furnished place and almost arranged to go into a beautiful business that I could make 200 per cent. on the money—the building business. It would only require about $6,000.

The letter then advises her how to sell fifty shares of Baldwin locomotive stock she possessed in order to realize the amount.

A Reasonable Plea For the Stomach

If Your Stomach Is Lacking in Digestive Power, Why Not Help the Stomach Do Its Work?

Especially When It Costs Nothing to Try.

Not with drugs, but with a reinforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the Stomach? Scientific analysis shows that digestion requires pepsin, nitrogenous ferments, and the secretion of hydrochloric acid. When your food fails to digest, it is proof positive that some of these agents are lacking in your digestive apparatus.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain nothing but these natural elements necessary to digestion, and when placed at work in the weak stomach and small intestines, supply what these organs need. They stimulate the gastric glands and gradually bring the digestive organs back to their normal condition.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been subjected to critical chemical tests at home and abroad and are found to contain nothing but natural digestives.

Chemical Laboratory. Telegraphic address, "Diffindo," London. Telephone No. 11029 Central. 20 Cullum St., Fenchurch St., E. C.

London, 9th Aug., 1905.

I have analyzed most carefully a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets (which I bought myself at a city chemist's shop for the purpose), manufactured by the F. A. Stuart Co., 86 Clerkenwell Road, London, E. C., and have to report that I cannot find any trace of vegetable or mineral poisons. Knowing the ingredients of the tablets, I am of opinion that they are admirably adaptable for the purpose for which they are intended.

(Signed)

John R. Brooke, F. I. C., F. C. S.

There is no secret in the preparation of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Their composition is commonly known among physicians, as is shown by the recommendations of 40,000 licensed physicians in the United States and Canada. They are the most popular of all remedies for indigestion, dyspepsia, water brash, insomnia, loss of appetite, melancholia, constipation, dysentery and kindred diseases originating from improper dissolution and assimilation of foods, because they are thoroughly reliable and harmless to man or child.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are at once a safe and a powerful remedy, one grain of the active principle in these tablets being strong enough (by test) to digest 3,000 grains of steak, eggs and other foods. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest your food for you when your stomach can't.

Ask your druggist for a fifty-cent box, or send to us direct for a free trial sample package, and you will be surprised at the result. F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Lillian Lorraine Now a Happy Bride Cares Not if Husband Is Rich or Poor

LILLIAN LORRAINE, WHO ADMITS THAT SHE IS MARRIED.

Popular Actress Wed to Frederick Gresheimer of Chicago at Jersey City.

NEW YORK, March 27.—Just after her first song in the play "Over the River," Lillian Lorraine, one of the principals in the piece, assembled her friends in her dressing room in the Globe Theatre and admitted that she was a bride. The rumor was in Broadway and it remained only for the pretty and popular actress to confirm it.

The man in the case is Frederick Gresheimer of Chicago, well known in New York. His parents are said to be prominent in the West.

This is Mrs. Gresheimer's story:

"This is the first time I have been married, so I do not know much about such things. I have known my husband for about a year. We met in Atlantic City.

"We have been engaged for several weeks, and Mr. Gresheimer is out in front now," resumed the happy actress. "At least, he was when the play began. Maybe he is at the Brooklyn Bridge now. I do not know whether or not he is wealthy. I have not delved into his affairs. We are happy. That is all.

"It was this way," continued the bride. "We lunched together and decided to get married at once. So we took a taxicab and went to Jersey City. I do not know exactly what the place is called, but it is a big building and has a dome and we had to sign a paper. I, of course, used my real name, which is Eaulalleau De Jacques. I do not know if they asked my husband if he had ever been married before. He has been divorced or is a widower.

"Then we went before a man named Lennon. I am sure I do not know what his title is.

"We were married."

MRS. PHOEBE HEARST HONORARY PRESIDENT

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27.—Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst has today accepted the invitation of the Women's Champ Clark League of California to become its honorary president-at-large. The letter of acceptance and thanks for the honor shown Mrs. Hearst by the women voters was read at a meeting of the Thirty-eighth Assembly District Champ Clark Club in the Hotel Jefferson. It was addressed by Mrs. Josephine Monohan, president of the State organization. Reports were received from the precinct workers which show that Clark is daily increasing his lead over other Democratic candidates in San Francisco.

HOUSE RECEIVES WOOL REPORTS

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The House received today both the majority and minority reports on bills revising the wool tariff schedule. They were introduced respectively by the Democratic and Republican members of the ways and means committee. The Democratic report attacked the data gathered by the Tariff Board and defended the ad valorem rates provided in the majority measure. On the other hand, the minority report praises the work of the Tariff Board and declares the specific rates of the Republican bill to be the most equitable and just revision of schedule "K." A hint that the President will veto the Democratic bill is contained in the closing paragraph in the minority report, which says:

"The official returns up to date indicate a surplus of not less than $25,000,000 for the present fiscal year.

"What new excuse will now be invented for a revenue duty on schedule 'K' cannot be conjectured until the majority report is seen. We invite the majority to co-operate with us in passing the bill we present, and make a radical reduction now instead of preventing a reduction by adhering to the Democratic bill."

The irreconcilable views of the Democratic and Republican members of the committee on these tariff measures are shown by references to the Tariff Board report on the wool industry. The minority refer to the report of the board as "The very able and complete report of the tariff board on wool." The Democrats referring to the same report, says:

"The incomplete, fragmentary and unsatisfactory nature of the data and the inadequate unreliable basis afforded for computation."

The Democratic bill is identical with that passed by the House last year in its attempt to revise the woolen schedule, and provides a 42 per cent. reduction on the average of the existing duties on wool. The duty on raw wool is placed at 20 per cent. ad valorem.

Explaining that the report of the tariff board did not justify any change in the old wool bill, the majority report filed today says:

"The committee has made a careful analysis of the report of the board, and in order to interpret the findings and to discover in what particulars the committee's former bill was defective or failed to adjust the duties in an equitable and proper manner.

"This analysis has failed to reveal anything that requires a single change in the rates fixed by the old bill."

In a recapitulation of the board's report, the Democratic members say:

"The theory of applying tariff duties according to the difference in the cost of production in this and in foreign countries, upon which the board has projected and prepared its report, is entirely erroneous and untenable."

The report refers to the Democratic victory of 1910 and declares this to have been the rebuke of the Payne law and a demand for a downward revision of the tariff. The rates of duty worked out by the majority members, says the report, have been fixed without anl reference to protection, but with an intent to reduce the indefensible rates which have so long been in effect.

On the other hand, the report of the minority accuses the Democrats of a desire not to have scientific information upon which to revise the tariff. The minority claims that the rates in the Republican bill are made in strict conformity to the data gathered by the Tariff Board, which have been characterized as worthless by the majority.

French Novelist Wants Wage Law for Writers

"We Are Entitled to as Much Legal Protection as English Miners," Declares Author

PARIS, March 27.—Rene Bazin, the novelist, member of the Academy of France, Doctor of Laws, professor of criminal law at the University of Angers, his native place, surprised Paris by proposing that a minimum wage be fixed for those who delve in literature, for writers, literary laborers, miners who use not the pickaxe, but the pen.

M. Bazin's high reputation added much weight to his proposal, made at the annual meeting of the Society of Men of Letters.

"We who work in literature are entitled to at least as much legal protection as is given to English colliers," Bazin declared.

He does not confine his revolutionary proposition to writers of fiction, like himself; he would have a minimum wage fixed for every one who makes a living by the sweat of his brow transmuted through the point of his pen.

Bazin's resolution embodying his purposes was carried unanimously, although it must be confessed that some who voted were rather dazed by his daring proposal.

An extraordinary general meeting of the Society of Men of Letters will be called to consider the best means of putting the minimum literary wage proposition in practice.

Mrs. Taft's Wages $25,000? 'Should Be!' Says Mrs. Wiley

Wives Count Their Profits if Plan for Making Husbands Divide Succeeds.

Do you pay Friend Wife one-third of your earnings for her own wages?

You laugh.

But this isn't a joke. It's a flat, serious proposition. It is made by Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, wife of the former chief chemist of the United States, "Pure Food" Wiley, as he is known.

Mrs. Wiley suggests that every husband pay his wife a wage equal to one-third his own income.

Some wives would draw down pretty tidy wages under that idea. Mrs. William Howard Taft, for instance, wife of the President, would have an income of $25,000 a year, about $500 a week. But this wouldn't go any too far if Mrs. Taft had to "run the house" as they say, on that figure. It takes a huge roll to run the White House.

Mayor Fitzgerald gets $10,000 a year. That is, roughly speaking $200 a week. Under Mrs. Wiley's plan His Honor would have to hand Mrs. Fitzgerald $66.66 every Saturday night.

Mrs. Wiley, Still a Bride.

It would be even more expensive for General Hugh Bancroft, chairman of the Boston Board of Port Directors. His salary, the biggest one paid a Massachusetts State official, is $15,000 a year. One-third, or $5,000, should go to Mrs. Bancroft, according to Mrs. Wiley.

Of course, if you are only getting $2.75 a day it doesn't make much difference whether you call your wafe's wages one-third or all of your pay envelope.

There isn't going to be enough left to scrap over when the store bill has been paid, something saved out for the rent at the end of the week and other allowances provided.

Mrs. Wiley's heart goes out to the wives who have to do a week's work in order to pry a nickel out of their husbands.

Mrs. Wiley, by the way, is comparatively a bride. She was married to Dr. Wiley on February 27, 1911, so she has been wedded just about a year and a month.

Servants Get More Than Wives.

Dr. Wiley has often declared himself regarding wives. He has told the farmers that they must treat their wives well and not give them less care, to say the least, than they do their blooded stock.

Mrs. Wiley's statements about the wifely third were made in Washington. She said:

"I do not think the time is far away when laws will be passed giving the wife and mother who toils long hours in the home without the recompense of a single penny a salary based on her husband's income.

"I believe the wife's wage should be one-third, never less than one-fourth of the husband's salary.

"Right now the wife is the only hard-working human animal who gets nothing for her ten, twelve, sometimes sixteen, hours of hard labor a day. Perhaps she is given board and lodging, but even servants get more than that.

"I have known women in Washington society who go from week to week with never a penny of their own for spending money. They are industrial slaves dependent for every necessity of life upon the whims and good nature of their husbands.

"I can really see no reason, however, why a mother should get more salary than a wife who has no children. A woman's duty to her child is on such a high plane that the financial question cannot enter there. Of course, she often gives up outside duties and works harder when the little ones come. But her pay for this will come from the children themselves.

"It is the duty of every woman to learn a profession or trade to support herself and aid the family purse if necessary. Nevertheless, the husband should be responsible for the wages of the busy mother or the sickly wife."

What These Women Would Get Under Mrs. Wiley's Plan

Wages of prominent wives based on one-third of their husbands' salaries as proposed by Mrs Harvey W. Wiley, wife of former chief chemist of the United States:

Mrs. William Howard Taft, wife of President, $25,000.

Mrs. James S. Sherman, wife of Vice-President, $4,000.

Mrs. Walter Fisher, wife of the Secretary of the Interior, $4,000.

Mrs. Franklin MacVeagh, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury, $4,000.

Mrs. Eugene N. Foss, wife of the Governor of Massachusetts, $2,666.

Mrs. John F. Fitzgerald, wife of the Mayor of Boston, $3,333.

Mrs. Hugh Bancroft, wife of the Chairman of the Boston Port Directors, $5,000.

Mrs. Louis K. Rourke, wife of the Boston Commissioner of Public Works, $3,000.

Mrs. John Hays Hammond, $33,333.

Mrs. Stratton D. Brooks, wife of the Boston School Superintendent, $2,000. (Mr. Brooks will draw $7,500 at Oklahoma University, so his wife's salary, under the Wiley plan, will be $2,500.)

Mrs. Washington B. Thomas, wife of the Sugar Trust head, $16,666.

NEWTON'S MILL STRIKE IS OFF

The strike in the Saxony Worsted mills in Newton is off. The operatives returned to work today. The strikers wanted a raise of 10 per cent, but accepted an advance of 5 per cent. There are 200 employes in these mills.

Twelve members of the Sheet Metal Workers' Union struck at the works of the American Soda Fountain Company, No. 32 Congress street, today. The men were called from their work and told to quit by Business Agent James T. Moriarty, who declared that this company refused to pay union wages.

An executive committee from three lodges of the Brick Layers and Masons' Union today sent to the contractors of this city and suburbs a notification that on and after June 1, this year, that the 2,000 members of this union will demand an increase from 60 cents, the present wage, to 65 cents an hour.

HELD ON CHARGE OF IMPERSONATING CITY PHYSICIAN

Frederick B. Cooley, forty, of the South End, who was arraigned before Judge Sullivan in the Municipal Court today on the charge of impersonating a physician in the employ of the Board of Health and on two other counts of larceny, was held in $500 for a hearing Friday. In default of bail he was committed to the Charles Street jail. It is alleged that Cooley went to the home of Mrs. Margaret Grenan, No. Andrews street, South End, and said he was a health officer in search of delicate children. After examining the throats of Mrs. Grenan's children with a silver spoon, he asked her for a fee of $1. She only had fifty cents, which she gave him. He said he would call for the remainder later. He also visited the home of Mrs. Robertson at No. 5 Andrews street, and performed the same operation on her children. Mrs. Robertson paid him $1. Last night Cooley called on Mrs. Grenan for the fifty cents which he said was due him and was arrested.

ROORBACK IN MELLEN ATTACK

Trunk Railway which seeks entry to the port of Boston, but the Southern New England Railroad Company.

2.—That the Grand Trunk isn't good for much anyhow.

The Coolidge argument was chock full of similar contradictions. That the Mellen roads are seriously afraid of the Grand Trunk, and that they are about ready to concede that public sentiment is strong enough and lively enough to get a Grand Trunk bill through the present Legislature, was indicated by Coolidge's threat of what the combination will do to the Grand Trunk in New England. Said the Mellen attorney:

"It will not be natural for our system to hold friendly relations with the Grand Trunk if it is to enter into competition in New England. So long as it is a 'connecting' road it is treated by our road without discrimination, but when it becomes a 'competing' railroad our interests must necessarily be with our connecting, rather than with a competing, road."

Mr. Coolidge said that the Grand Trunk is not interested in New England territory in any other way than to "tap" it.

The Legal Question.

Mr. Mellen's attorney caused a laugh in the committee room when, speaking about the several things asked for by the Grand Trunk's "special" bill which are not in the "general" railroad law, he said:

"Existing statutes ought not to be disobeyed if the Legislature expects the ordinary public to obey the law."

The excitement in the committee room when Coolidge said this was caused by Norman H. White of Brookline falling off a chair. Former Representative White conducted a three-year battle against the New Haven in the Legislature for buying Boston & Maine control contrary to Massachusetts law and for taking over trolley lines contrary to law.

Coolidge ridiculed the idea that the Grand Trunk is coming to Boston in response to an "invitation."

"The Grand Trunk officials must have been as much surprised by this 'invitation,'" he said, "as some statesmen are surprised on receiving petitions requesting them to allow their names to be placed on the ballot."

Raises Foreign Issue.

"It is not the Grand Trunk Railway that is the petitioner," he said, "but the Southern New England, an off-shoot of the Central Vermont. Nobody wants a single-track railroad like the Central Vermont to build to Boston."

Then he attacked the Grand Trunk folks as foreigners and "Englishmen." The directors of the Grand Trunk Railway, with the single exception of President Hays, he said, reside in London, England.

"The people of Massachusetts," said Coolidge, "should distinctly understand just what kind of gentlemen they are dealing with. They should surely not be more solicitious for Englishmen and Canadians than they are for their own citizens. Ought not these residents of Canada and England, in all honor, to do everything they can to help Canada, rather than Boston? Mr. Hay says: In Canada—that they will. Mr. Ives—here in Massachusetts—says they will not. Mr. Fitzhugh—carefully refrained from saying anything definite. Whom will you believe? Where is 'his master's voice?'"

While there was no other testimony than Coolidge's argument, the attorney informed the committee that the cotton and woolen mills—which helped the New Haven to pull off the Boston & Maine merger—are against the coming of the Grand Trunk. Coolidge mentioned.

The Amoskeag, of Manchester.
The Pacific Mills, of Lawrence.
The Merrimack Mills, of Lowell.
The Atlantic Mills, of Lawrence.

"Bonds of our roads to the amount of $120,000,000 are owned by our savings banks; Thus is the great mass of wage-earners interested in our road.

"Our road stands ready and willing to provide every facility which Massachusetts shippers require; not every luxury. There is nothing the Grand Trunk road, or its subsidiary, the Southern New England, can off erthat we do not provide.'"

Woodward Hudson, for the Boston & Albany, also spoke in opposition.

ROYALTY FIGHTS FAT

Court Favors Go to the "Divinely Slender"—Denver is Contributing to the Good Work of Redeeming the Habitually Obese.

"When knighthood was in flower," it was the habit of royalty to be slender. Indeed, no king or baron could ever foretell what the morrow would bring forth—and the race went to the fleet—and the fleet were invariably slender.

Since those halcyon days of lean utility, conditions have changed, and the members of regal households have eaten much and moved about little. Nature has exacted her toll, and today European nobility is noted for its numerous fleshy scions and daughters.

There is nothing startling in this, perhaps, for others who never possessed a title are also suffering from the same malady. But the interesting feature is found in the fact that European courts may again be noted for the slender ladies and knights, because an American girl figured it all out on her own account.

Miss Marjorie E. Hamilton of Denver, Colo., who became noted as the "Calendar Girl" while still in her teens, soon found the golden wand deserting her—and once she started to lose her slender grace of girlhood for the obese proportions of womanhood, she was no longer in demand as an artists' model.

Hundreds of thousands of women—and men, too—throughout America have learned how she again reclaimed herself, without drugs, diet or harmful exercise, or anything else strenuous in nature. And now her treatment has gone forward to Queen Alexandra of England and the Empress of Germany, as well as to many other royal families.

"Fat is a calamity," says Miss Hamilton, "and like all dreadful maladies it must be treated. Possessing a royal title is not a sign of immunity from it. Indeed, it may be a short cut to obesity. I hope to hear that their royal highnesses have again entered the blessed ranks of the slender—and I know that the possession of rank in their respective realms will not keep these court ladies from enjoying the freedom of suppleness that the men and women of my own country are enjoying."

At this point in the interview, Miss Hamilton drummed on the polished top of her magnificent desk in her sumptuous offices in the Central Bank building, and smiled.

"Of course, I scarcely expect to have royalty come out openly with a testimonial, and I cannot say that I dare use it if that were the case—but my fat reducing treatments have gone forward, and just why I was induced to send them is another matter. It is a little way, I suppose, that certain persons high up in the world's favors have of granting their favors and satisfying their desires. I am quite contented as to the outcome."

YOU WILL WONDER WHAT BECAME OF ALL THAT STOMACH DISTRESS

If your stomach is sick, sour, gassy and upset now, you can surely get relief in five minutes.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Diapepsin and in five minutes you truly will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

TEN PERISH IN AVALANCHE

VIENNA, March 27.—A party of eleven skiers was overwhelmed by an avalanche near the summit of Schnea Berg, near Vienna, and ten were killed. Two woodcutters heard groans beneath the snow. They dug hastily, and discovered a woman with her clothes torn, and so exhausted there is little hope of her recovery. She gasped, "Avalanche! Dig deeper!" and then fainted. They recovered the corpse of the leader of the party, Dr. Hacker. Then they conveyed the woman, sole survivor of the tragedy, to the hotel.

W. F. ALMY BROUGHT TO BOSTON AND HAS A COURT HEARING

William F. Almy, the Brookline broker, had a hearing today before Judge Hammond in the Supreme Court. He was brought from Worcester on a writ of habeas corpus. Almy is defendant in a suit by Edwin Ginn, millionaire publisher who seeks to recover $300,000 for losses by an alleged fradulent sale of mining stock. The broker was arrested in Worcester on a charge of attempting to leave the State and escape judgment.

Ginn's charges are based on a transaction in Argenta Mining stock, and the facts relating to the Argenta Mining Company's operations were gone into before Judge Hammond.

83 PERISHED IN MINE DISASTER

JED, W. Va., March 27.—The explosion in the mine of the Jed Coal & Coke Company early yesterday claimed eighty-three lives. The last of the bodies was recovered at 10:30 o'clock today. During his work of directing the removal of the bodies, Deputy Mine Inspector Nicholson was overcome by black damp and was taken out just in time to save his life.

Here's a New Marriage Plan: Not One, But Three Certificates

By SYBIL WARNE.

"How to be happy though married!"

Fortify yourselves with three certificates.

1. Health certificate.

2. Financial certificate for the bridegroom.

3. Domestic science certificate for the bride.

Rev. Mabel H. Witham, pastor of the Church of Immortalism, Back Bay, says that when ministers are asking for health certificates, they should not stop at that, but seek also financial and domestic science certificates.

The financial certificate sets forth that the husband can support a wife, the domestic science certificate that the bride can cook and knows beef from mutton.

Mrs. Witham thinks certificates of any kind will tend to materialize marriage and take the love out of it. We are becoming too mechanical, in her opinion, in viewing marriage, and will drive out the love from it unless we are careful.

She is an earnest advocate of love as the supreme guide in life. Love should direct the choice of a husband or wife rather than mere health certificates, the minister asserts. While she indorses the effort made by the Episcopal bishop of Chicago, she thinks the mere granting of health certificates to those about to marry "may turn the homes of the future into gymnasiums."

Other Certificates.

As some clergymen are advocating a health certificate before they will marry any one, let me suggest two other certificates that should be considered, if we must deal with certificates in the marriage relations," said Mrs. Witham.

"The other two certificates that I would recommend are a financial certificate to be given by the bridegroom, showing that he is able to take care of a wife and giving evidence to show he will not be out of a position every few months.

"The other certificate is the domestic science certificate to be furnished by the bride, which will indicate that she can cook and knows something about housekeeping and how to conduct a home of her own.

"We are getting so material in our wishes to-day about the marriage relations that we have often forgotten the one thing needed—and that is love.

"Have we forgotten that even healthy people will be unhappy if they do not love each other? Suppose two persons cannot get a clean bill of health on account of some peculiar view of a physician, though they love each other dearly, are they to be kept apart?

Love "Supreme Fact."

"Are we losing sight of the fact that love is the supreme fact in marriage?

"Let us have pure love. Do not let us lay so much stress upon health certificates or any other certificates, but when we talk certificates I do not see why we should not pay some attention to the financial certificate.

"Why should a young woman give up a good position to marry a young man and then find after marriage that he can hardly take care of himself and is all the time losing his position through his own fault? Every young man who contemplates marriage should give such evidence to the young woman that he is about to marry. A financial certificate signed by his employer or by some responsible person should be given.

"Then, above all things, let the young woman provide evidence that she knows something about cooking; that she knows more than how to make fudge, that she can get up a good dinner and make it palatable in a scientific way. How many young women cry over their first experiences in cooking when they attempt to keep house?

"Let the bride be asked 'Can you cook well? Do you know how to buy food? Do you know beef from mutton or veal? Do you know how to make good bread or even cake?' These are important questions.

"People may get married on a health certificate, but suppose the bride does not know how to cook a potato, what's the use of the health certificate?

"Then this financial certificate is necessary. Every young man should give a clear business-like statement of his resources before marriage so that when he is married he will give evidence that he was married on a good money margin.

"Now I am saying all this, remember, because clergymen are talking about health certificates. Do not let us forget other certificates. I suppose their number will be increased as we continue to advance in knowledge. Our forefathers never had so many obstacles to marriage as we are attempting to erect in these days. While we approve of everything that will advance the health of the community, we must not forget that love must be supreme in the making of marriages and not any kind of certificate.

"All these types of reform that we are emphasizing today cannot possibly make marriage any happier. Are we on the eve of loving a person because he is healthy or because he has a good income or for some other reason? Is love to be side tracked in these days?"

"Of what use are certificates if the bride can't boil potatoes?" asks pastor.

Warns against too much emphasis on health, for fear of possible hardships.

"Danger homes of future may be mere gymnasiums under health system."

"Young men should prove to brides that they will not always be losing positions."

SUFFRAGETTS GET 6-MONTH SENTENCES

LONDON, March 27.—Sentences of from four to six months imprisonment were given in the special sitting of the County of London Sessions for the trial of 120 women in connection with the window-smashing raids in London on March 1 and March 4.

A prisoner who is serving a term in Holloway Jail after conviction for window-smashing testified that bags of stones and hammers had been served out to herself and others from the Suffragette headquarters with orders to break windows.

WAGON FRACTURES LITTLE GIRL'S THIGH

Running across the street to join a playmate, five-year-old Jennie Grotman of No. 237 Chambers street, West End, was knocked down in front of her home by a team owned by Martin O'Grady of Belmont and driven by Frank J. P. Grady of No. 24 Trowbridge street of that town. The wheels passed across her life thigh, fracturing it. She was removed to the Massachusetts General Hospital.

James T. Powers Portrays the Tailor Made Man! "Two Little Brides" a Sprightly Festival of Song

Author Discards Grotesque Make-up and Ragtime Music in Operetta He Wrote Himself.

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

It would seem that musical plays are taking a turn for the better, which is not without its compensation. This was noticeable at the Shubert last evening, where James T. Powers, to general surprise, ceased being grotesque and made an admirable effort to assume the duties of a comedian without the aid of ridiculous makeup.

Perhaps the dignity that attaches itself to an author moved Mr. Powers away from the sins of his burlesque past. At any rate, for once in his useful life he was an actor with tailor-made clothes and a mind for the delicate things of comedy that mark the distinction between the real and the artificial.

"Two Little Brides" faced a big audience last night and made itself agreeable with pretty melodies and a romantic story that came straight from St. Petersburg. And it may be said that Mr. Powers looked his prettiest most of the time, which only went to prove that an author who writes plays for his own acting can be depended upon to take good care of himself.

As a young man about town—St. Petersburg type—Mr. Powers was the last word in the season's fashion. Barring his red hair and his gurgling manner of speech, he was a good Russian. Lines from Mr. Powers' lips flowed upon the evening like water out of a bottle with a small neck. But he was helpful to drooping spirits, so why dwell upon trivialities?

Scene in Russia.

A long time dead, or forgotten by librettists, it will be noticed that Russia is this season appearing upon the musical comedy map. Beg pardon; Mr. Powers interrupts to announce that "Two Little Brides" is not musical comedy—it is operetta. Whatever its classification, it found a friendly audience to welcome it.

There was an unmistakable charm to both Gustav Kerker's music and the romantic story. The combination gave the piece a touch of quality that held it on an even keel, in spite of its tendency to give more importance to laughs than to consistency.

Taken as a whole, it was a sprightly affair that, stripped of its music, would make a passable comedy. If you can imagine Mr. Powers groomed to a finish and turned loose in a young ladies' seminary, where a strict rule provides that any girl detected flirting must marry the lucky man at once, you have a fair idea of what kind of work Mr. Powers wrote for himself. These regulations explain, perhaps, why the scene was laid in Russia. It wouldn't have been so bad for Polycarp Ivanovitch, who was Mr. Powers for the evening, if he hadn't been tripped into the mess while on his way to his own wedding.

It was to Polycarp's credit, however, that he stuck to the school girl victim, for she was played delightfully by Frances Cameron, who also sang with fine spirit and fitted into every situation as if it had been made for her. Miss Cameron shared the feminine honors of the evening with Miss Christine Nielson, whose voice was in sound singing condition. These "Two Little Brides" sang their way into emphatic popularity.

Ragtime Songs Missing.

The absence of ragtime songs and long rows of sturdy young women in costumes without skirts made "Two Little Brides the cause of general thanksgiving. It was not a "girlie" show in any particular, which ought to count in its favor. There was enough to please the eye in the dainty colorings of the costumes and the harmonious surroundings. But there were girls—engaged for singing purposes, and that kept them busy. It is not often that the chorus man receives attention. He earns it in the case of "Two Little Brides," for he was the only dark spot in an otherwise attractive picture. He sang lustily—twelve of him—but he was made up in an ill-assorted group. He was in sad need of personal improvement.

When the operating machinery of "Two Little Brides" settles down to smooth running it will prove a delightful entertainment, for it is rich in melody and soothing to the mind. Mr. Powers gave ample evidence last evening that he can appear very much at home in straight comedy. Of course, you cannot tell whether he gurgles or giggles, but who cares? He was very good to himself as an author, and as an actor he made but few mistakes.

Quick Action Prescription Cures Colds in a Day

The best and quickest prescription known to medical science for colds and coughs is as follows: "From your druggist get two ounces of Glycerine and half an ounce of Concentrated Pine compound. Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half pint of good whiskey. Shake it well. Take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bed time. Smaller doses to children according to age." Be sure to get only the genuine (Globe) Concentrated Pine. Each half ounce bottle comes in a tin screw-top sealed case. Any druggist has it on hand or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. There are many cheaper preparations of large quantity, but it don't pay to experiment. This treatment is certain cure. This has been published here for six winters and thousands say it has no equal.

OLD SUN TAVERN, 1690, MUST GO

The Sun Tavern in Dock square, built in 1690, and one of the oldest buildings in Boston, is to be demolished. Orders have been given by the Fire Commissioner to remove the structure, along with others in the vicinity, belonging to the C. W. Galloupe estate, as fire hazards. They include also the old Bite Tavern in the angle made by South Market street and Faneuil Hall square.

It is understood a modern brick building will replace both structures. The rough-hewn oaken beams of the Sun Tavern seem as sound today as when they were placed in position upon the hewed and shouldered uprights which support them.

The Sun Tavern has on its Faneuil Hall square face a tablet stating that the building was erected in 1690, and the date has never been disputed as far as is known.

$75,000 FIRE AT LOWELL

LOWELL, March 27.—Spontaneous combustion in the building occupied by C. B. Coburn & Co., dealers in paints, oils, gasoline and chemicals at No. 63 Market street, shortly before 5 o'clock today, started a fire which gave the residents of this city a scare and caused a damage of at least $75,000.

Flames belching forth from a side window on the first floor of this building were discovered by night watchman James Manion, of an adjoining block, and he lost no time in sending in an alarm. When the firemen arrived, the chief, knowing the nature of the material the building contained, immediately ordered a second alarm sent in, which brought most of the apparatus in the city to the scene.

BOSTON CITY CLUB ENJOYS A NIGHT OF OPERA HODGE PODGE

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

The Boston City Club owned the Boston Opera House last night and witnessed the only gala night that the Boston Opera House has given.

Gala nights are common in New York and Chicago where art is not under such high pressure as it is in Boston. A gala night, be it known, is to the opera what corned beef hash is to the restaurant, made out of bits of everything, but appetizing enough, withal.

The Opera House was filled with clubites, the up-lift, high brow, practical and reform wings of the famous organization turning out in throngs and high hats. There were pretty women by the hundreds, and diamonds and jewels and all the other accompaniments of the regular subscription night.

The performance consisted of the third act of "Boheme," the garden scene from "Faust," the first act of "Coppelia," and the pageant scene from "Aida."

There were several interesting incidents like the appearance of the obliging Zenatello as Rodolfo in "Boheme," a part he has never sung in the opera here, and Carmen Melis as Mimi, a part in which she had hitherto been excluded.

There was also Fely Dereyne as Marguerite in the garden scene, with Clement, Silli, D'Olige and De Courcy. The pageant scene from "Aida" revealed a regular cast, Zenatello, Gay, Melis and Polese.

Marie Gay added the cigarette scene and the habanera from "Carmen" to the patchwork.

There was the greatest enthusiasm and every evidence of a good time.

NEARLY $3,000 MORE FOR OPERA FUND

New contributions of almost $3,000 to the opera house guarantee fund are bringing it rapidly upon its way to the $100,000 mark. Meanwhile subscriptions for seats continue to come in in the most gratifying manner, giving assurance that Boston is determined in putting the Opera Company on a secure basis.

GLOUCESTER MEN FLOCK TO CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Richard W. Freeman and Captain Carl C. Young of Gloucester are in Washington as the advance guard of a delegation from Gloucester to gather material in support of Representative Gardner's bill to prohibit beam trawling. The Gardner bill, which was introduced early in the session, prevents the landing in American ports of fish caught with beam or otter trawls.

HUNT MAN AFTER 'SUICIDE' NOTE

The Boston and Lynn police departments are endeavoring to locate William F. Compton, forty-one years old, a Spanish War veteran, who disappeared from his home at No. 180 Hill street, Biddeford, Me., last Friday, and who sent, or caused to be sent, a letter bearing a Lynn postmark stating that he had committed suicide because he was no longer able to endure the pangs of a broken heart for the love of his wife, whose company he was denied.

The letter was signed T. E. Emmett, No. 17 Wharf street, Lynn. The name and street could not be found by the Lynn police. The letter was as follows:

"Today, March 24, I found a coat and hat on the pier of the Lynn Yacht Club and in the pocket I found this note:

"'I, W. F. Compton, husband of Mrs. Cora Grant Compton of 180 Hill st., Biddeford, have committed suicide by jumping overboard. I have a broken heart for the love of a wife I thought dearer than life.

"'I have given up in despair of having her companionship. I have been married but five weeks and have been denied my wife's company continually since February 24, three days after our wedding. The finder of this note will please notify relatives.'"

No trace of the hat or coat spoken of could be found, nor no stranger seen on the pier, access to which would be impossible except by going through the club house. His wife, when communicated with by the Lynn police, gives no credence to th suicide story and can give no reason for her husband acting in this manner, except to annoy her. She said her husband came from Iowa last December and they were married on February 21, last. He went away last Friday saying he was going to work for the Portland Street Railway Company, but she received information that he was not employed there.

TO PARIS IN FIVE DAYS.

PARIS, March 27.—From New York to Paris in five days is the dream it is hoped will be realized if the citizens of Brest succeed in their efforts to attract some trans-atlantic company to that port. The only obstacle to the establishing the projected service is the railroad connection between Brest and Paris.

Slashed Panier Skirt Defended Here But the Kaiser Thinks It Atrocious

THREE PICTURES OF THE "PANIER" SKIRT COSTUME, NOW CREATING A FURORE

Girl Wearing New Panier Skirt.

"Bah!" Says German Emperor When Asked About It; but He Likes the Hobble.

PANIER (Pa-nie, n. m. 1, basket; 2, pannier; 3, hamper; 4, bee hive (of osier or straw); 5, hoop petticoat.
—French Dictionary.

Fashion experts in Boston were interested today in a dispatch from Paris which stated that the Kaiser was opposed to the new panier skirt, which is now all the rage in America as well as in Europe.

According to the Paris dispatch, Mlle. Provost, a French actress, was received by the Kaiser during a recent visit to Berlin, and the German Emperor proceeded to air his opinion of Paris fashions.

"The hobble skirt," he said in reply to a question from Mlle. Provost, "It is very becoming."

"And what do you think of the panier skirt?" asked Mlle. Provost.

"Bah!" exclaimed the German Emperor, "I do not like it at all. It is atrocious. Our modern fashions should be patterned along modern lines. They should not follow the sensational."

Boston fashion experts indignantly denied today that hte panier skirt transcended the lines of modesty. They pointed to the fact that the panier costume, which was in vogue during the time of Louis XVI. of France, has never heretofore been considered a breach of the proprieties of Dame Fashion.

The panier costume proper consists of a kind of gauzy mass of tulle. The skirts cling about the figure, but the dress is very wide around the waist.

Other models of this style reflect the direct influence of the Greek. One of the styles embraced a deep slash running from the ankle well up the gown, the slash being filled in with lace or mousseline de soie or tulle.

No underskirts are worn with the panier costumes.

AUTOISTS SCORE POOR STREETS

By J. C. KERRISON.

Automobilists and dealers are filled with anger because of the bad condition of the asphalt on Boylston street between Arlington and Tremont streets. While that is the worst stretch, the conditions beyond Arlington street to Copley square are also pretty bad.

Big holes greet the auto drivers with great frequency, which has been the cause of considerable damage to many cars. "What these holes have cost automobilists during the past month would fill it with silver, let alone asphalt," said one prominent dealer yesterday, in speaking about it, whose cars have been victims of the treacherous holes.

The board of governors of the Automobile Club of America has not made up a list of nominations for officers, though the ticket is required to be sent out two weeks in advance of the annual meeting. The list should be ready for dispatching to the members today, as the annual meeting should fall on April 9.

However, because of the delay in the presentation of the compromise report, which will not be considered by the members until April 2, no effort has been made to put together a ticket. The report will have to be acted on first and then the nominations will be made. The annual meeting, therefore, is likely to be set back to about April 23, in order to conform with the two weeks' notice.

The full program of contests at Santa Monica on May 4, for which entries close on April 25, contains a list of five races. They are all for non-stock cars, four of them in Class C and the fifth in Class D, a free-for-all. The shortest scheduled race is that for cars of 161 to 230 cubic inches piston displacement. These will cover the circuit of 8.417 miles twelve times, a total of slightly more than 101 miles. There is also a class of cars from 231 to 300 cubic inches piston displacement, which will cover a course totaling 151.506 miles. These two races are to be run together, the winner in the first to get the Chandler and Lyon perpetual challenge trophy and the other to get the Jepson perpetual challenge trophy. There are cash prizes also in each event.

The three other races are to be run coincidentally, starting later. The first of these is for cars in the 301-450 displacement class, to cover a course of 202 miles. The second is for cars in the 451-600 displacement division, for a distance of 252.51 miles. The free-for-all is for cars of any description whatsoever, which are to race for 303 miles. The free-for-all has for prizes the Dick Ferris trophy and carries $3,500 to the first, $1,000 to the second and $500 to the third car. There are cash prizes for the two other divisions and trophies to be selected. The race meet is to be conducted under the sanction of the Motor Car Dealers Association of Los Angeles.

SIMPLE FORMULAS FOR HEALTH AND BEAUTY

TO DESTROY DANDRUFF—No more efficient remedy can be found for removing dandruff than the following quinine tonic massaged into the scalp twice a week: Dissolve 1 ounce of quinzoin in ½ pint of alcohol and add ½ pint of cold water. This tonic is also splendid for an itching scalp and falling hair. Its regular use will keep the hair and scalp in excellent condition, and it is good for both light and dark hair.

STRAGGLY EYEBROWS—Rubbing pyroxin on eyebrows with finger-tips induces them to grow thick and silky. Thin, stubby lashes can be made to grow heavy and long, with a slight curl, by applying pyroxin to lash-roots with thumb and forefinger. Be careful, however, and don't get any where no hair is wanted.

TO RESTORE LOST ENERGY—Lack of energy, lost appetite and failing strength are due to impure, sluggish blood. The best way to correct these troubles is to purify the blood by taking before meals a tablespoonful of this simple tonic: Dissolve an ounce of kardene and ½ cupful of sugar in ½ pint of alcohol, then add hot water to make a quart. This tonic is very strengthening and will do wonders in giving one energy and a healthy look.

FINE EYE-REMEDY—A very simple and inexpensive yet decidedly good eye-tonic is made by dissolving an ounce of crystos in a pint of water. A few drops of this tonic in each eye daily will prove very strengthening to tired, weak eyes. For relieving inflamed, watery eyes and granulated lids it is unequaled.

BEAUTIFIES THE SKIN—A wonderful greaseless cream for clearing, smoothing and beautifying the complexion can be made by dissolving an ounce of almozoin in ½ pint of cold water; then adding 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine. This face cream will not grow hair and is very fine for keeping the skin soft. It prevents chapping and keeps the skin pores free from dirt.

Wife Makes Good in Role of Detective

Through her ability as a detective, Mrs. Evelyn Elms of Melrose is again in possession of valuable household goods, wearing apparel and jewelry, which she claims to have found in the home of Mrs. Louis N. Taft, No. 84 Salem street, where, the Medford police say, her husband, Levi Elms, a former Melrose Alderman, has been seen.

After investigations covering the past three weeks, Mrs. Elms secured a search warrant and with Officers Lenox and Welsh proceeded to the house where Mrs. Taft lives. After a brief search the trio recovered various articles which Mrs. Elms claimed as her property. The value of the goods is estimated at $300.

Mrs. Elms and her husband have not been living together for several months. The wife was awarded separate support by the courts. She has been living since with a sister. Elms, who is well known in Melrose, and the owner of a large stock farm, continued to live alone in the house.

Some weeks ago Mrs. Elms began to employ her ingenuity and detective ability in an attempt to learn the whereabouts of personal effects which had disappeared from her former home.

PLAYMATE GRIEVES AT FORD FUNERAL

BROCKTON, March 27.—A touching feature at the funeral of John J. Ford was grief of five-year-old Joseph Mellon, a playmate of the little fellow and the last to speak to the boy before he lost his life in Trout brook. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, and the casket, when lowered in a grave at Calvary Cemetery, was covered with flowers. The reward of $100, raised by public subscription, will be paid over to Officer Nils Lindboom, who found the body.

$10,000 Annuity to Teach Waif the Violin

PHILADELPHIA, March 27.—By the will of Mrs. Joseph Drexel, widow of the banker, an annuity of $10,000 is provided to continue the musical education of a protege of hers, Domenico A. Bove, a little Italian lad.

Nine years ago Mrs. Drexel heard the boy and his father, who were itinerant musicians, playing about the streets. Since then she lavished money upon his tuition, under widely known teachers. For four years he has been a student at the Royal Academy of Music in Vienna.

Shortly before her death she financed an elaborate concert abroad, at which some of the world's greatest artists were present, and they showered encomiums upon the young player.

Professor Otaker Sevcik, the director of the master school of the Royal Academy and the former teacher of Kubelik, has been secured by the administrators of the estate to complete the musical education of the boy, who gives promise of becoming a great violin virtuoso.

RILEY'S COLUMN

AFTER three weeks of sunshine, rain, mid-summer hot weather and flood all mixed up together the Pilgrims broke camp at Augusta, Ga., today and are homeward bound. They'll come North a little jump at a time feeling their way for good weather and will land in Boston April 10. The trip will cover thirty-seven days while the Nationals only spent twenty-eight days in last year's Augusta journey.

BUT the Pilgrims ought to come home in good shape if they can keep up the improvement that began as soon as the big Augusta flood furnished a grand wind up of their varied weather experiences.

Some of the men have colds and kindred ailments and nearly everybody in the Pilgrim party has seen a bonesetter during the Southern excursion. With reasonable weather on the homeward journey they will work out of these ailments, because the men are in fine physical condition.

CY YOUNG was the hero of the final day in Augusta. A Georgian horse balked in Broad street and walked onto the sidewalk in front of the principal hotel of the city during the busiest shopping hour.

AFTER the Southern belles had screamed and run and everybody had tried a hand at coaxing the horse, Cy took hold of the rear of the carriage and pulled carriage and horse into the street. The animal did not like this and in an effort to stop lay flat down on the pavement. Then Cy lifted him to his hoofs, whispered in his ear and the beast became good natured again.

* * *

"D'YOU all pull dat hoss into the street?" said a circus manager. "what's you all name?" "My name's Cy Young and that's my business," said Uncle Cy. "Oh, we all reckoned you was Hackenschmidt," observed the circus man. "But, say, you all's good enough to go long in ma show."

EXCESSIVE heat has put "Stubby Bill" Jones, the little Nemo of the Boston Nationals, out of the game for a little while. Jonesey was fast getting to be one of the best getters on the Pilgrims and from being a victim of the jokesmiths at the start, had become one of the town heroes. Yesterday he took a ball on the end of his right thumb. Exit Jones for the present.

THE DUKE of Marlboro regretted leaving Augusta. He had started a feud between two colored waiters at the Hotel Albion by telling each of them that the other fellow was "cutting him out" of his best girl. "Why does that fellow down there look at you so meanlike?" asked Farrell of one of the rivals. "Wall, boss," said the dusky, "he done reckon he has the inside track oh me, cause he went out and got a razor dis yeah mohnin. But ah's had de inside track dese two days. Sh-sh-sh, ah's got a gun, an mohorah suah Ah's done got de gal, too."

"DOC" QUIRK of the Red Sox performed the strangest feat in baseball surgical history when he straightened out the dislocated "Adam's apple" of Shortstop Viox of the Pirates according to press reports from Hot Springs. Some readers of that yarn may dislocate their "Adam's apple" trying to swallow the story.

NEW PILGRIM OUTFIELD AS FINALLY FIXED

The first in line, on the left, is "Hickory" Jackson, who plays the left garden. Next is smiling "Vin" Campbell, the former Pirate, who is doing grand work with the Bostons, and who is selected to cover centre field. On the right is "Doc" Miller, who will play right field. From all accounts and their showing up to date, these three men are the heaviest hitting trio in the National League.

CONNOLLY AND WHITE IN DRAW

By JACK CONWAY.

Johnny Connolly of Scotland and Joe White of South Boston fought ten fast rounds to a draw in the main bout at the Central A. C. last night. The decision of Referee Johnny Connors was greeted with hisses from the crowd. The majority of the spectators believed that Connolly's fine all-around work entitled him to the verdict.

The Scotchman put up a magnificent battle and had the best of the mixing in the majority of the rounds. In the last round, he went after the Peninsular favorite and when the gong sounded at the end of the chapter Joe was in pretty bad condition.

A squad of police from Station three swooped down on the club shortly after 9 o'clock and placed President Joseph McCarthy under arrest. The arrest was made on the old warrant which was taken out last January when the American A. C. was conducting boxing shows.

No. Knock Downs In Bout.

The bout between Connolly and White was one of the best which has been witnessed between local boys this season. White weighed about 146 pounds while Connolly tipped the beam in the vicinity of 138 pounds.

Eddie Mack's protege more than offset White's advantage in weight by his clever footwork, fine defence and his ability to land repeatedly with his left.

There was not a knock down scored by either of the men. Connolly landed the most blows. White was wild, but when he landed his punches possessed "smoke."

Connolly put up a brilliant fight in the final round and jabbed Joe with his left and crossed his right to the Peninsular boy's head and body time and again. White fought back gamely, but was unable to land many solid punches.

Reagan Easy for Farren.

Joe Farren, of East Boston, easily defeated Eddie Reagan of Quincy in the semi-final bout of eight rounds. The lad from the Granite City was outclassed.

Farren had a lead in every round. Reagan did not appear to be in very good condition and was all in at the end of the second round. He covered up and stalled for the next four rounds. He opened up in the last two rounds and did fairly well.

Pat Rocco, of Haverhill, won over Battling Kelley of New York in a slashing six-round preliminary. Kelley started off like a two-year-old and ran up a big lead in the first two rounds. Rocco's clever work with his left and hard body punches finally slowed up the boxer from the big town and he was hanging on in the last two rounds.

Gilbert Gallant, of Chelsea, will meet Charley Griffin of Australia in the main bout next week. The Chelsea boy has been traveling at a great clip lately and should give the Australian lightweight a great tussle for supremacy. Young McCartney of Philadelphia will meet either Johnny Connolly or Joe White in two weeks.

Girl Golf Champion Wins in Close Match

PINEHURST, N. C., March 27.—Brisk play characterized the first match play round in the United North and South golf championship for women, four pairs overrunning the home green.

Dorothy Campbell, the Canadian champion, who played Miss Myra B. Helmer of Midlothian, had the gallery and won only by the narrow margin of two up and one to play.

Somewhat of a sensation was caused by the defeat of Miss Mary Fownes of Oakmont, sister of the 1910 national champion, and winner of the United in 1909, by Miss Kate Van Ostrand of the Jefferson County Country, 3 up and 2 to play.

Other survivors in the championship sixteen are Miss Sarah Fownes of Oakmont, who meets Miss Campbell tomorrow; Mrs. Raymond Farr of Georgetown, S. C., who plays Miss Van Ostrand; Mrs. W. C. Fownes, Jr., wife of the 1910 national champion, who meets Mrs. R. C. King of New Canaan, and Mrs. J. Raymond Price of Oakmont, who is bracketed with Mrs. C. S. Waterhouse of New York.

Unknown Rival for Famous Airedales

Everything is in readiness for the opening of the Eastern Dog Club show at Mechanics building next week, and already great interest is being displayed in the list of entries in the various classes.

It is expected that a greater number and higher class of Airedale terriers than has ever been shown here, either in all-breed or specialty shows, will be seen in competition.

The Victory Kennels of Chicago will show Prince of York and William Prescott Walcott will exhibit Ch Kenmore Sorceress.

These two dogs are said to be the best of the breed in the United States.

Opposed to these champions will be a dog that recently was purchased by President George S. West of the Eastern Dog Club. This dog was "discovered" in a poor man's cottage in Great Britain by George Thomas of Hamilton, just as he discovered Sorceress.

HYDE PARK HIGH DEMANDS DATES

The following schedule of games has been arranged by Manager James Thomson and Captain John McKenna for the Hyde Park High School team:

April 11, South Boston at Hyde Park; 16, Hyde Park at Stoneham; 19, Hyde Park at New Bedford; 23, Boston Y. M. C. A. Prep. at Hyde Park; 26, Hyde Park at Watertown; 30, Hyde Park at Wellesley.

May 2, Brighton at Hyde Park; 7, Stoneham at Hyde Park; 11, Watertown at Hyde Park; 14, Hyde Park at Norwood; 18, Hyde Park at Needham; 22, Wellesley at Hyde Park; 25, Brighton at Hyde Park; 30, Dedham at Hyde Park.

June 1, Needham at Hyde Park; 5, Hyde Park at Norwood; 8 open; 11, Norwood at Hyde Park; 14, Hyde Park at South Framingham; 17, Hyde Park at Dedham.

In case of a tie between Hyde Park and Dedham, it is planned to play a third game June 29.

CUTLER LOSES AGAIN.

NEW YORK, March 27.—Calvin Demarest took another game from Albert Cutler, at Slosson's Academy, where Demarest is practicing for his coming championship match with Willie Hoppe. Demarest clicked off 400 points in twenty innings, making a high run of 75. Cutler totaled 232 and his high run was 42.

GRANEY TO REFEREE.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27.—Eddie Graney, promoter of the bout, has been selected as the referee for the twenty-round fight Friday night between Johnny Frayne and Frankie Burns, the local lightweights.

Framingham School Meet Won by Seniors

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, March 27.—The seniors won the indoor meet held by Framingham High School, securing the shield given by the athletic association of the school, with 53 points, while the juniors scored 13½, the freshmen were third with 8½ and the sophomores fourth with two points.

Paul T. Burr, '12, was awarded the cup for the boy scoring the most points, his total being 15. Leo V. Halloran, '12, and Harry Mason, '12, made 13 points each.

TWO NEW PITCHERS FOR BROCKTON TEAM

BROCKTON, March 27.—Joseph W. Burns of Taunton, one of the owners of the Brockton team of the New England League, notified Secretary Fred V. Harrington of the club that he had made arrangements for the purchase of Kinsella, a pitcher, last year with Denver in the Western League. Flynn, a pitcher from Schenectady, has been signed by Manager Eddie McLane, who is on a tour through New York State looking for players.

PERCIVAL IS BEATEN.

In the 49th game of the Class B amateur billiard tourney at the Elite, Raffaele defeated Percival, 200 to 177.

DE MAR NOT TO RUN MARATHON

Clarence DeMar, record holder of the B. A. A. marathon run, today stood on his statement that he would not compete in B. A. A. run on April 19. The Melrose boys is anxious to be a candidate on the Olympic team to Sweden next Cummer, but the matter ih now being widely discussed and many believe that the Melrose boy will not be a member on the team unless he competes in the run on the nineteenth.

The American Olympic committee has stated that all candidates must compete in the official trials in order to make the team and if the committee sticks to this ruling, DeMar will be off the list.

DeMar won the B. A. A. run last season and the Brockton marathon last Fall, and by his wonderful work in these runs it was generally conceded by all the local sporting authorities that he was a wonderful athlete and a sure member of the Olympic team.

The official trial race is but three weeks away, and DeMar states that it would be impossible for him or any other runner to get in condition in this space of time for such a long, gruelling race.

"I doubt the authority of the statement that I will have to run in the B. A. A. race or else not be a candidate for the Olympic team," said DeMar, "since I have been assured by good authority that it would not be necessary for me to run in the B. A. A. run. E. E. Babb, member of the New England committee, told me that I would not have to compete, so I have done no hard training for the event. I have written to Mr. Sullivan and received in answer that the executive committee would have to pass on the matter.

"It is absurd to ask a man to compete in a twenty-five mile race on April 19 and then expect him to show his best form in July. Remember Mike Morrissey of New York in the last Olympic games? He won the B. A. A. Marathon, and what did he do in the Olympic event? He did not figure at all, and that is the point I want to bring out."

Boston Schoolboys Booming Rowing

With the High School of Commerce already in and the Mechanic Arts and Dorchester High as probable joiners the Schoolboy Rowing Association promises to have a fine field.

Brookline High, Cambridge Latin, Boston Latin, Rindge Technical and Boston English High School are all members of the body while Commerce will take up rowing for the first time.

Wesley Coleman of Cambridge Latin School was re-elected president, Albert A. Tate of Boston Latin was chosen vice-president and George V. Brown secretary-treasurer.

The resignations of the Noble & Greenough and Roxbury Latin Schools were read by Secretary Brown, but as yet no official notice has been received from Volkmann of its withdrawal to join the new Schoolboy Rowing Association.

If six or more schools will engage in rowing this season, Frank B. Greer and Jack Manning will be engaged as coaches by the B. I. R. A. Each school will row three days a week. They will again row from the B. A. A. boathouses.

A committee consisting of President Coleman, Tate of Boston Latin and Pettingill of English was appointed to invite Mechanic Arts into the association, while Secretary Brown will extend an invitation to Dorchester High School.

SWARTHMORE WINNER.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Swathmore College defeated the Catholic University for the first time in three years here, 6 to 3.

KILBANE TO SEE RIVALS IN BOUTS

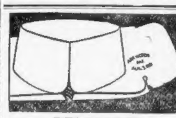

NEW YORK, March 27.—Johnny Kilbane, the new featherweight champion, arrived in New York today for an unlimited stay. Kilbane will be at the ringside tonight at the elimination bouts of featherweights and it is said that he will see his next opponent workout. Johnny is in great demand and he has been receiving offers close to the figures that Wolgast received when he fought several lightweights in this city.

Boy Swimmer of 15 Brookline Meet Star

Leo Handy, fifteen, of the B. G. A. A. swimming team, was the star performer of the trial heats in the 440-yard swim for the championship of Brookline, held at the Brookline municipal baths.

Handy was the youngest competitor and won the second heat. W. McCarthy, B. G. A. A., won the first heat in 6m. 15s. Ben James of the Brookline Swimming Club was second and E. Duffy, B. G. A. A., third.

Dave Church of the swimming club won second position in the second heat and R. J. McKinnon, B. G. A. A., won third place. The final heat will be run off next Tuesday evening.

Big Cut Coming in Red Sox Squad
Youngsters Busy Dodging Hook

By H. B. SCHULTZ,
Special American Correspondent with the Red Sox.

HARLEIGH B. SCHULTZ

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 27.—Heinie Wagner, whose arm has made him the big question mark in the minds of the fans at home and the camp followers here, will be missing from the diamond for a couple of days. But don't get worried, for it isn't his arm that is taking the great shortstop out of the game. While handling his razor, during shaving preliminaries, Heinie gashed the ball of his right palm, just below the thumb. Sticking plaster was brought into play, but in the practice before the afternoon game a catch off the ground opened the wound. Until it heals, Heinie will lay off.

UNFORTUNATE BUT NOT SERIOUS.

The accident at this time is unfortunate, but not serious. As Heinie says, it is a minor matter. The vital thing is his right arm. Everybody has been asking how about Wagner's arm? It is the most important query of all so far as the Red Sox are concerned.

The future in several respects depends on the condition of that right arm. Heinie himself says he has no doubt the arm is O. K. and still able to whip the ball as of old. The rest are hopeful, but it is true that Manager Stahl is taking no chances, for he has time and time again urged Wagner to go slowly and risk nothing.

Until the doughty player has proved that the arm is as good as ever, a number of matters as to makeup of the infield and so on will remain undecided. Should the arm prove good, but not at its best, Stahl will be ready to play Wagner at second, to save the injured limb.

Such a shift would put the several contestants for that position out of consideration. The main fight for places on the team now centres about second base. Among others in the race are Jack Lewis, Shinn and Goodman, all three of whom would be eliminated were Wagner to be changed.

Pruning Process About Due to Start.

There is really little reason to think, however, that the old reliable will not be in at short again this season. Yet is one of those chances which may come out the other way. Small as the present Red Sox contingent is, compared to the number of players the other big league clubs are carrying, there is some considerable pruning to be done before the season opens.

By good authority it was stated today that at least four men will go by the time the team strikes Boston two weeks hence. Before the weeding out process is finished two more may depart from the ranks.

The same authority declared that the team is not likely to carry more than eight pitchers. This means that three are slated for tickets to the minor leagues. Without doubt the old-timers will stick. Wood, O'Brien, Pape, Collins, Cicotte and Hall.

The contest then lies among Leonard, Anderson, Bedient, Hagerman and Bushelman. Of the number Leonard's work has been most pleasing to Stahl and President McAleer. At least three out of the present infielder staff will go.

Stahl will not carry more than three utility infielders. Of that number himself, Gardner, Wagner and Yerkes seem secure. The team could not afford to lose Bradley. Engle is too good, and everything has pointed to a great future for Krug. As things look now, it will appear that the men slated to go will be all newcomers.

The outfield will remain unchanged and the catching quartet will abide. This summary brings out the striking point that it now appears that the team which will return to Boston will be practically the old-time aggregation, provided Wagner is in condition. New faces will be very few and far between.

Few New Faces When Team Returns.

From now on until the team leaves town next Tuesday, Manager Stahl will pay particular attention to limbering up his pitchers.

Yesterday he gave four a try-out, all youngsters, who must show the goods in order to stick. Of the number Bushelman pitched the best ball, allowing the Yannigans but three hits in five innings.

Anderson used his spit ball to good advantage, striking out Jake Stahl and Larry Gardner in succession and keeping the Regulars down to four hits in his five innings. Bedient was in good form, while Hageman was apparently at his worst.

In general work not one of the new men starred, not even Mart Krug, the lad of whom McAleer expects great things.

Their fielding was not above par in the games. Perhaps it was an off-day, for even Manager Stahl failed to make his customary home run, striking out for the second time this season, and made only one hit.

Successful candidates for home run honors were Bradley and Catcher Cady.

KLAUS-M'GOORTY BOUT MAY BE CALLED OFF

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27.—The proposed elimination bout for the middleweight title between Frank Klaus of Pittsburg and Eddie McGoorty scheduled to take place here on April 13 may be called off. The boxers cannot agree on the weight, Klaus wanting McGoorty to make 158 pounds two hours before battle, while the latter will insist on that weight six hours before entering the ring.

HORINE SMASHES HIGH JUMP RECORD

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., March 27.—George Horine of Stanford, regarded as one of the strongest candidates for the American Olympic team, made a World's Intercollegiate record in competition in the high jump, clearing the bar at 6 feet 4¾ inches. The former record was 6 feet 4 inches, held by W. B. Page of the University of Pennsylvania.

ANDOVER CAPTAIN SENT TO HOSPITAL

ANDOVER, March 27.—Captain Edward W. Mahan of the Andover Academy baseball team is in the infirmary here with what the authorities at first thought was appendicitis, but it was given out today that he is suffering from ptomaine poison. It is understood that it is not of serious nature, and he will return to his home in Natick within a day or two.

NEW BOWLING RECORD.

PATERSON, N. J., March 27.—A new world's record for a single game score by a five-man team was made at the National Bowling Association tournament by the Spacke quintet of Indianapolis. The team rolled 1,069 in the last game, or three pins better than the record made by the Bonds of Columbus, O., in 1908.

Leading Teams Meet in the City League

Much depends on the outcome of the Murray & Irwin and Carruth City League match tonight at the Carruth Alleys. On paper the teams are evenly matched. Both roll on sandpaper alleys and some high scores should be set up.

No changes will be made in the Murray & Irwin lineup as was reported. Walter Kirk is satisfied with the showing made by his men all season and will not make any changes.

Boylston is the team that will bear close watching tonight. A four-point win for them over Adams Square, while Carruth and Murray & Irwin are breaking even, would put them close on the heels of the two leaders. With its new lineup, Boylston's chances look doubly good.

According to Harry Ross, Elite is out to cause some trouble tonight. Billy Ferris' candlepin stars will roll at Chauncy and will have some trouble in disposing of Bill Beatty's hustlers.

In the other match in the City League Tom McCarthy's Pets will have Hayward as its opponent. The latter team has been showing the way to many of the leaders of late and may cause the Pets a little trouble.

Ty Cobb Pitches for His Home Town Team

ATHENS, Ga., March 27.—Ty Cobb brought a team composed of Royston (Ga.) boys here and downed the University of Georgia lads, 4 to 1. Cobb hails from the small town of Royston and he captained the team on the occasion. The feature of the game was the pitching of Cobb. He gave the natives here a splendid exhibition of base running, at one time getting home from second base on a slow grounder to first base. Cobb was touched up by the university lads for eight hits.

"Young Griffo" Broke, Sent to Workhouse

NEW YORK, March 27.—Albert Griffith, better known to the sporting world as "Young Griffo," who once was rated as a first-class pugilist, when arraigned in the Men's Court before Magistrate Appleton, on a charge of seeking alms at the corner of Forty-second street and Broadway, said:

"Your Honor, I once had all kinds of money, and I spent it, too, right on the corner where the officer arrested me; but now I am down and out."

The magistrate noticed Griffith's poor condition, and told him he thought three months in the workhouse would help to put him on his feet.

LID DOWN ON BOXING CLUBS IN MALDEN

The lid is down on boxing in Malden. The two clubs, the Malden Physical Culture and Social Club and the Commercial A. C., have been closed and it is expected that the lid will be on for good in spite of the objection offered by the Malden "fans." The police claim that tickets were obtained by men not bona fide members of the clubs. The clubs had been running smoothly for several weeks and putting on good shows to the satisfaction of many members.

CHRISTOPHER LOSES TO LOWELL BOWLER

Martel of Lowell was the winner over Christopher in their 20-string match at the Boylston alleys, with a total of 2,032 against 2,001.

The first ten strings, which were rolled at Lowell, gave Christopher 996 against 984 by Martel.

The scores:

Martel—113, 90, 82, 95, 139, 100, 103, 103, 116, 107—1,048.

Christopher—109, 98, 96, 103, 120, 109, 88, 93, 91, 100—1,001.

OLYMPIAN CYCLISTS HAVE $1,000 FUND

Uncle Sam will be represented by his best bicycle riders in the Olympic games, which will be held in Sweden next June. The National Cycling Association, which has been collecting funds to send a team across the Atlantic, reports that it now has $1,000.

R. F. Kelsey of New York, the president of the organization, announces that about $800 more is needed to send a good, strong team to uphold the colors of the United States.

WILLIAMS NINE TO GO ON EASTER TRIP

WILLIAMSTOWN, March 27.—The Williams baseball men will have the advantage again this season by early outdoor practice by a trip to New York during the Easter recess. Fifteen players, the coach and manager will make the trip. A park will be secured in New York, and the whole week will be taken up by stiff practice. With this week of work the team should be in good condition to start the season.

CRIMSON RAPS HARVARD ALLEYS

For the first time in the history of Harvard College, the Crimson, the daily organ of the Harvard student body, criticises the way the authorities at the institution neglect the care of the bowling alleys in the basement of the Hemenway gymnasium.

It is quite customary for bowling alley proprietors to install new pins and balls at frequent intervals, and also to polish the alleys several times a day, but in the cases of the free bowling alleys in the basement of the gym, there is nothing doing on new pins, news balls, or the polishing of the surfaces.

The balls that were put in the rack when the first string was rolled, and the pins that were knocked down by the same ball, are still in service, accordingto the undergraduates at the college. And not a graduate can be found who will go on the stand and say that the alleys have ever been polished.

Many students have mistaken the ridges near the centre of the polished surfaces as th gutters, instead of the proper place to roll the ball to hit the head pin.

The Crimson today prints the following:

Game of Pure Chance.

The familiar type in our midst is the case-hardened gambler; the grimly smiling sport lover who courts Dame Fortune at he can; the man who confesses with a devilish expression that he likes to take a sporting chance. He need no longer go in town for the tense mental exhilaration of matching nickels to see who shall pay the fares, for within the six or seven walls of the maligned Hemenway Gymnasius is a bowling alley where he will find both physical exertion and the most delightfully fickle uncertainty.

The alley resembles a relief map of the State of Nevada; the balls have little devils in them, and they skip and prance from upland to meadow, while the giddy pins across the divide is the same as a Central American army. At the noisy, bouncing approach of the enemy the pins, like a Central American army, shiver and fall. One can make a terrible score without hitting the pins. Chance is everywhere, in the lopsided balls, in the undulating alleys and in the gutters at the side.

But, however fortunate this may be, we know of many men who go to the gymnasium to bowl. The little money spent on these alleys now would improve a most inadequate equipment and not necessarily delay the hoped-for new gymnasium.

ROLLER TO TACKLE EBERLE ON THE MAT

SPRINGFIELD, March 27.—The local wrestling fans are expecting one of the greatest bouts ever held in this city tonight when Dr. Roller and George Eberle, the Swiss giant, clash on the mat. Both grapplers reported today in the best of condition for a hard tussle. The toe hold will be barred, and the Swiss champion believes this will help him win the bout, as this was one of Roller's strong points.

ELMWOODS WANT GAMES.

The Elmwood A. C. of Revere have reorganized and would like games with fast amateur teams. They have been strengthened by the acquisition of several strong players. Address Ralph Coppola, No. 50 Elmwood street, Revere.

Boxing Results

NEW YORK, March 27.—Mike Gibbons of St. Paul gave Jack Denning of New York a decisive walloping at the Fairmont A. C., but failed to knock him out. Jack, though weak and badly cut in the face and sore in the body, managed by repeatedly rushing into clinches and holding on in the last three chapters to last the ten rounds.

Steve Kennedy, a youngster from Lawrence, Mass., made short work of Charley Barry of Brooklyn, putting him to the canvas for the count in the second round.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 27.—Joe Kansas of Buffalo outfought Cyclone Williams in a fierce ten-round bout before a crowd at the International A. C. here. The first five rounds were Kansas'. Williams carried the sixth, eighth and ninth. The seventh was even and Kansas had all the better of the tenth.

BATH, Me., March 27.—A small crowd saw "Bonus" Sullivan of Bath and Kid Burke of Boston fight two six-round bouts here to a draw. Several preliminaries were put on, the best being between Young Butler and Kid Chase, both of Bath, who put up six good rounds for youngsters. La Roche and Beaulieu also fought a good six-round contest.

Sheppard Confident Of Three Victories

NEW YORK, March 27.—Melvin W. Sheppard, the peerless middle-distance runner of the country, is very jubilant as to what he is going to do at the Olympiad, which will be held in Sweden next June. In a very boasting way he said that he would win at least three events—namely, the 400, 800 and 1,500 metre runs.

"Any man who beats me will have to smash a record," said Melvin. Besides winning the aforesaid races, he predicts that America will win the 1,600-metre relay, which he hopes to run in.

Umpire Will Be King Just Once Each Year

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 27.—The Blue Grass Baseball League directors met here and decided to hold an "umpire day" this year, on which day players and spectators are to treat the umpire with the utmost consideration.

This action was officially sanctioned by the National Baseball Association at its meeting in San Antonio last year, after the author of the idea, President William Neal of the Blue Grass League had explained its provisions.

JOCKEY WILLIAMS SAILS FOR EUROPE

NEW YORK, March 27.—Fred Williams, who has been engaged by Charles Kohler to ride the steeplechase horses developed by Samuel C. Hildreth in France, sailed to-day on the Cunard steamer Campania. Williams is one of the best steeplechase jockeys on the track today and many horsemen predict that he will make a good sweep on the foreign courses. He won every cross-country at Windsor and also has many other laurels.

POEHLER-SKINNER END BIG MATCH

The Bazata Alleys, of Westfield, will be the mecca of many "fans" from all over New England tonight when Paul Poehler, the champion New England bowler, tackles Jim Skinner, the pride of Holyoke, in the final twenty strings of their Marathon match.

In the opening string, the champion gained a comfortable lead and does not expect to find it hard in beating Skinner.

FAST HOCKEY GAMES AT ARENA THIS WEEK

Boston hockey fans should witness two great games this week to wind up the most successful hockey season at the Arena. The B. A. A. and Intercolonial sevens are putting in some hard practice sessions on the ice in preparations for the games with the Winnipeg Victorias. The B. A. A. team will clash with the Canadian champions on Thursday evening and the Intercolonials will meet the Canadians Saturday night.

AMHERST BALL NINE TO LEAVE FOR SOUTH

AMHERST, March 27.—The Amherst baseball squad will leave on its Southern training trip tomorrow morning. The team will go to Charlottesville, Va., where they play the first game on Friday. The following players will take the trip: Pitchers: Vernon, Tilden, Whiteman and Proudfoot; catcher, Strahan; infielders, Captain Burt, Fitts, Williamson and Partenheimer; outfielders, Swasey, Kimball, Delastro.

WESTON AND DE ORO WIN.

PHILADELPHIA, March 27.—Alfred de Oro and Charles Weston of Chicago won the games in the preliminary round for the National pocket billiards championship. De Oro won from Thomas Wilson of Hackensack, N. J., 150 to 39, while Weston defeated W. W. King of New York 150 to 105.

Pilgrims End Stay at Augusta
First of Home Trip Games Today

By L. R. MURDOCH,
Sporting Editor, American.

L. R. MURDOCH

ATHENS, Ga., March 27.—Fifteen members of the Boston National training squad came here from Augusta today to meet the Buffalo International League team in the first game of the 1912 season.

Kling's team lines up as follows: Campbell, c.f.; Sweeney 2b; Miller, r.f.; Jackson, l.f.; Hauser, 1b; Spratt, ss.; McDonald, 3b; Kling and Rariden, c., and Young, Tyler and Donnelly, p.

Kling had his eye on this game because he wanted to start the season with a win just for the effect of the thing.

BID FAREWELL TO AUGUSTA.

The trip was a "barn storming" expedition. John M. Ward promised George Stallings a game and the Buffalo team came to Augusta last Saturday to play it. Rain interfered and Ward sent his men over here today to make good.

Stallings' players are training near here. The Buffalo manager has a plantation hereabouts, and the chief owners of the team are wintering near Augusta.

The principal part of the Boston squad broke camp at daylight today to come here. Tonight they leave for Columbia, S. C., where they will meet those left behind this morning. The latter bunch, in charge of Trainer James E. Neary, depart from Augusta this afternoon direct for Columbia. That ends the eventful Spring training session at the Georgia Winter resort.

Games Scheduled for Every Day Now

The Pilgrims are glad to get away from Augusta because they are eager for action and uncertain weather kept them idle too often. There is little for unoccupied baseball players to do in Augusta and the men are so near being "on edge" that they want to "get busy."

From now on they will have plenty of chance, for a game is scheduled for every day and there will be a long railroad jump every two or three days until they reach Boston, April 10.

Before shaking the dust of Augusta from their spikes the squad gave the natives an exhibition of regular baseball between the first team and the Yannigans. The Regulars played a league game, while the Yannigans' exhibition was like a camembert cheese.

After the game the officers of the government aviation school, which have been testing army aeroplanes, gave a "get-a-away" exhibition of their flying skill, under or, rather over, the eye of Wilbur Wright himself who came here to look over the army maneouvres. The Federal birdmen leave Augusta at the same time as the Bostonians.

The Regulars had their batting eyes open and trimmed their younger brethern to the tune of 9 to 3. "Hub" Perdue gave the first exhibition of nine full innings in the box and finished with as much speed as he had at the start.

Hess, Mattern and Weaver were on show for the Yannigans, and were banged freely. Their sole excuse was indifferent fielding back of them. Of course, the Yannigan field was full of pitchers, and "Stubby Bill" Jones had a thumb sprained, so "there's a reason."

Mattern displayed some of his old-time activity, watching the bases for the Yannigans, and he and "Vin" Campbell played hide and seek whenever the ex-Pirate got on. But Mattern never caught Campbell. The lively outfielder took plenty of liberties, too.

Bill Sweeney gave a good exhibition of bunting, which ought to be a lesson to the others. He sent a particularly clever roller down the third base line in the fifth inning.

Lewis Tries to Steal With the Bases Full.

Lewis, the recruit catcher, furnished the vaudeville of the game by trying to steal second with the bases full in the eigth inning. He substituted for Hauser in that session, and thought he was pulling off something brilliant when he took a big lead and started like an antelope for second base, where Jackson was located.

As Campbell had third nailed down, there was no opening anywhere for Lewis, and the unfortunate youth had to start back, only to be an easy victim of Weaver's toss to Kirk, who covered first for the Yannigans, while the Duke of Marlboro, arbitrating the unpleasantness, rolled over in the grass, holding his sides to keep them from bursting.

PIERCE MOTOR CYCLES

Power, speed, elegance, minimum of vibration, maximum of comfort; a gentleman's machine without a peer; in a class by itself. EVERYTHING RUNS SMOOTHLY AT 96

In some shops the least indication of good business sets everybody by the heels. Not so at 96 Court street.

Down here, our business is organized from salesroom to tailoring workrooms so that everything runs smoothly in rush season or the dullest day in August.

We are able, at all times, to give try-ons and make prompt deliveries simply by putting on extra speed. No skimping or neglect. Just an extra push here and there to help things along.

So you can order your Easter suit or overcoat today or tomorrow or next day and we will guarantee delivery next week.

The price will be $15 to $25 for suit or overcoat, completed, and we have the finest line of woolens in Boston from which to pick the pattern. Drop in and see for yourself.

You won't be heckled by anybody.

QUIGLEY GOES TO PIERCE FARM

Edward L. Quigley, who represented the Charlestown district in the City Council under the old charter and has been identified with the Democratic party for twenty-five years, is undergoing treatment at Pierce Farm.

According to the records, Quigley voluntarily called at the institution and asked that he be given care and treatment.

"It is a case of nervous breakdown," said the attending physician today, "and we placed him in the convalescent ward in the Fisher building. The ex-Alderman's case is not serious. He seems to want rest and recuperation and preferred to come here of his own accord rather than go elsewhere."

"I'm game—don't fret about me," said Attorney Coakley, who is also at Pierce Farm, where he is under observation for a seven-day period as to his sanity, to friends who visited him.

Miss Annie Coakley, a sister, with whom Mr. Coakley has been living in South Boston, was among those who called on him. And to her, as he did to the others, Mr. Coakley said:

"I am all right, and if necessary it will be proven that my sanity is not in the slightest way impaired."

SHEEHAN SCORES FOUNDRY EVILS

Determined action against the women foundry-slave evil is freely predicted among State House attaches today, as a result of the conditions disclosed by a sudden descent of the Joint Committee of Labor upon the Blake-Knowles Pump Company foundry in Cambridge yesterday afternoon.

Ex-Representative John F. Sheehan of Holyoke, who accompanied the committee at the joint request of Senate Chairman Ross and House Chairman Carr, today declared that the coupe scored on the Pump Trust was a telling blow against the women founrdy-slave evil.

He further asserted that by its surprise visit to the plant in question the Legislative Committee on Labor unasked the trust and corroborated in almost every detail the charges of women slavery made by him in Haverhill last September, at the State Federation of Labor convention. Here is his account of the surprise visit:

"A stunning blow has been delivered against the women foundry-slave evil in Massachusetts by the unexpected descent of the joint Committee on Labor from the Legislature upon the Blake-Knowles pump foundry, a branch of the Pump Trust.

"From forty to fifty women were found at work in the core room. Scarcely one of these women could speak English, and fully one-third of their number were actually engaged at work that would tax the strength of the most rugged of men. In several instances the careplates these women were handling were so heavy that a man could scarcely lift them.

"Representative Parks and I got on each end of a care plate, and we had all we could do to lift it off the ground while the women were required to raise it chest-high, and carry it to the workbench.

"The heat, and noxious, almost deadly gas, in the coreroom where these women were at work were almost unbearable.

"The scanty clothing worn by them also shocked some of the committee, but even then it was not so bad as I have seen it among women foundry slaves during the heated season.

"In almost every detail, the horrifying conditions portrayed by the Sunday AMERICAN, in its expose last September, following my charges at the Haverhill convention, were disclosed to every person present.

"Different members of the Legislative Committee, in private conversation later, informed me that they had no hesitation in saying that something radical would be recommended by them to put a stop to this horrible practice in the immediate future.

"This was the real thing, an expose of the women foundry-slave evil as it exists in every-day life, although the cool weather prevailing was responsible for the fact that more clothing was worn by the women yesterday than usual.

"Side by side with men, stripped to the waist, these poor women have worked for years past at their unwomanly calling.

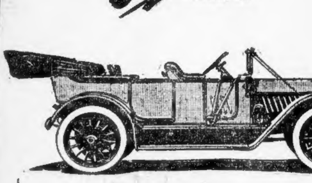

"It was with joy that I received a dispatch at my home in Holyoke yesterday requesting me to meet the Committee on Labor in executive session and prepare for a sudden descent upon the Cambridge foundry.

"Then followed a secret session of the committee, a dash to the Blake-Knowles Pump Company foundry at Cambridge, a sudden descent upon the coreroom, and—well, the official report of that committee will tell the remainder of the story later.

"The Sunday AMERICAN'S expose of conditons among those women six months ago is today vindicated in every particular.

"The horrible practice must stop, and I believe that the present Committee on Labor will find a way to stop it as a result of what they found among the women-foundry-slaves at Cambridge yesterday."

Feeling is Believing

IN the matter of handsome lines, correct proportions and beautiful finish, seeing is believing.

But when it comes to a car that literally glides over the inequalities of the road;

a car that "handles" like a well-trained thoroughbred, eager yet obedient;

a car that never needs coaxing on the hills;

a car that inspires restful confidence at all times;

then feeling is believing!

You can "feel" the difference between the Oldsmobile and the average car.

A road demonstration will positively reveal qualities not apparent to the eye.

For that reason we invite you to take a ride in the demonstrator.

THE WAR DEPARTMENT
WASHINGTON, D. C.

1861 1865
FOR THE PEOPLE

THE
History of the Civil War
BY
BENSON J. LOSSING, LL. D.
THE FAMOUS HISTORIAN

A Snowstorm of Coupons Came in Response to the American's Great Offer

MATHEW B. BRADY, the photographic genius of his time, received permission from President Lincoln to take photographs while the war was going on, 1861-65, and for four long, weary years, Brady and his men were like the men behind the guns, the daring spirits behind the cameras. The Government paid $27,840 for these negatives, and they went into the archives of the War Department; but the people of the country never saw them. They were not serving their great educational purpose. The War Memorial Association devised a plan whereby beautiful fac-simile copies of the best of the collection could reach the people at a cost so small as to prove startling. The Boston American was appointed to make the great distribution in all New England. Many said it could not be done, even in these days of labor-saving inventions, but it has been done and the War Department at Washington has furnished photographs taken by the official photographer direct from the famous historical negatives and granted permission to publish them for the highly educational purpose of illustrating Lossing's History of the Civil War. Fine illustrations will also appear from a private collection of war photographs loaned by the owner to further illustrate this great history. The History will also include a chronological record of every engagement throughout the entire war, compiled from government records.

Think of it, copies of the real photographs taken on the "spot" by Mathew B. Brady and his men during the whole four years of the war. It was a feat without a parallel.

General Grant saw many of the photographs taken, and in a letter in 1866 said, "The collection is valuable for the present generation, but how much more valuable for future generations." General Grant joined Generals Butler and Garfield in stating these negatives were worth $150,000. They are not merely imaginary sketches of what an artist might think, but real speaking likenesses of the great men who made history and the historical scenes and events of the time. The real big thing is that the Government saved these precious negatives, and after all these years you can secure beautiful copies exclusively through the Boston American at a nominal cost, less than one cent for five pictures. Not only this but sixteen magnificent colored plates will go with the series giving fac-simile reproductions of great historical events and battles made from splendid paintings by famous artists of military subjects. The entire work will cost American readers only fifteen cents a week for each section. Under the present system of publishing many times this charge would have to be made to meet the regular trade expenses. These expenses, however, have been dispensed with through the unique plan adopted by the American to reach the people.

The Magpie Habit

By VIRGINIA TERHUNE VAN DE WATER

MOST of [illegible] have it [illegible] certain [illegible] with [illegible] things [illegible] wants at present and [illegible] for them [illegible] time.

Yet we keep them [illegible] things we want now [illegible] may have them in the future [illegible] not want them [illegible] taking away [illegible] the small [illegible].

What a nuisance these [illegible] things are! A woman who is a busy [illegible] drawer of her desk packed to overflowing with a heterogeneous mass [illegible] brought a smile [illegible] with an exclamation of [illegible] to my lips when I was [illegible] a few days ago. The owner of the [illegible] and its contents feels every bit of space that she has in her small room and her desk, and I was astonished when I saw that which the opening of the drawer brought to light.

"What under the sun have you there?" I asked.

"Just things," she declared hopelessly. "They are of no use; but I have not the courage to throw them away."

Such a motley assortment as she brought forth when she thrust her hand into the packed receptacle! Tinsel cord and bits of holly ribbon that [illegible] around Christmas gifts, post cards and Christmas cards, Easter and birthday cards, valentines, cigar bands, [illegible] buttons, badges of various sorts, [illegible], dinner and supper favors, even [illegible] two dried flowers.

"What can one do with such [illegible]?" she demanded.

It was too late now to [illegible] what should have been done at first. When one gets such things in the beginning, throw them away. One often sees appeals for Christmas cards, etc., for scrap books intended for hospitals, where they will bring a little joy to sick children. Some people even in this rushing time have so much leisure that they actually make cigar-band ash trays. Pass the colored and gilded stripes on to them; but the other things, those for which there is no further use, throw away.

Any superintendent of a home for incurables, or for cripples, or for the destitute blind, or for indigent old people would be glad to receive clothing for the poor in his institution. Any clergyman could tell of worthy persons, too proud to beg, to whom the [illegible] garments would be a godsend.

It would honor the dead more to dispose thus of their clothing than to pack it away in a trunk to be wept over for a few years, or as long as we are here, then to be thrown out by some heartless [illegible], or riddled to bits by moths and mice.

As to letters—but here I do not know what to advise. My common sense tells me that to keep them is a mistake. Of course [illegible] know that the [illegible] ordinary letter is easily destroyed, and we toss into our waste basket a dozen such in a day. But what about the letters from those we love?

Reason and common sense [illegible] these epistles were intended for our eyes [illegible] that if we keep them they may some day fall into the hands of indifferent persons, and [illegible] the writers [illegible]. But [illegible] when those [illegible] speak to us with [illegible] we not regret that we destroyed [illegible] messages left to us?

So I say that I do not [illegible].

But I do know that [illegible] will give [illegible] magpie [illegible] the art of throwing [illegible].

MAINE LIQUOR MEN SCARED

BIDDEFORD, Me., March 27.—[illegible] for the last two months [illegible] the arrest of [illegible] County [illegible] O. Emery of York County on a charge of [illegible] Attorney Asa Richardson [illegible].

[illegible] on the first floor [illegible] of Sheriff Emery the activity [illegible] League and the fear of [illegible] have been [illegible] openness [illegible].

When [illegible], Roosevelt was in Biddeford last Saturday the saloons were wide open. [illegible] bartenders supplied customers and no questions were asked. Whiskey, beer [illegible] anything that appealed to the thirsty was on tap.

A Boston man with the Roosevelt party was in one of the places having some refreshments when a big uniformed policeman stalked in. It was a few minutes of 6 in the evening.

"Here," said the policeman to the bartender, "you must close this place up at 6 o'clock."

"All right," replied the bartender.

"Yes," replied the representative of the law in dry Maine, "you close at 6 o'clock and don't you open up again until 6 o'clock Monday morning."

"Sure thing," replied the bartender.

Promises More Arrests

Edward H. Emery of the Maine Civic League, who had much to do with the arrest of High Sheriff Charles O. Emery of York County on the charge of bribery, in connection with the illegal sale of liquor, said today that this was only the beginning of a series of arrests and prosecutions to be made in probing a so-called "rum syndicate."

Sheriff Emery, who is held in $10,000 bonds, refuses to discuss the case.

The Sheriff, it is charged, was a member of the so-called "rum syndicate," which is backed, it is said, by a prominent Democrat. It is further alleged that Sheriff Emery paid $100 on the basis of $50 a week to County Attorney Asa Richardson in return for which the attorney was to join the "syndicate" and withhold prosecution.

Sheriff Emery, when arraigned before Trial Justice Harold H. Bourne, pleaded not guilty and was held for a hearing Saturday morning under $10,000 bonds, furnished by prominent residents of Sanford.

It is claimed County Attorney Richardson is responsible for the charges brought against the sheriff. After the January term of court in Saco a number of saloons were running in this city, and it was openly charged that a deal had been made whereby the saloon keepers could sell liquor without being molested.

Visited Saloons.

Early in February the County Attorney came here from his home in Kennebunk, accompanied by Rev. Mr. [illegible] of that town, and visited a number of the saloons.

Shortly afterward, it is alleged, he was approached by a Biddeford man who unfolded a scheme whereby the county attorney was to receive certain sums of money if he would refrain from prosecuting certain places in Biddeford.

The plan in brief, it is alleged, was that [illegible] the liquor law were not sent to jail but were allowed to pay a fine about three times a [illegible] and left otherwise unmolested. The county attorney [illegible] have $50 a week.

According to [illegible] story, the county attorney asked for time to think the proposition over and [illegible] at a subsequent meeting [illegible] it is alleged that he would not [illegible] business [illegible] anyone except Sheriff Emery and that whatever was done must be done at Mr. Richardson's place at Kennebunk.

Alleges Money Was Paid.

County Attorney Richardson went to Sanford the following day, where he called upon Ed H. Emery of the Maine Civic League and told him all details. Others were consulted and plans made to have witnesses present when the sheriff called, if he did so.

February [illegible], it is claimed, the sheriff came to Mr. Richardson's home in Kennebunk. The county attorney says he took pains to have the sheriff seat himself near a register to which the hot air pipe from the cellar led, and immediately below this register were stationed three men. It is understood one was a stenographer.

County Attorney Richardson would not give the details of that interview today. It is alleged, however, that as a result of that meeting Sheriff Emery came to the county attorney's office in Kennebunk on March 8 and gave him five $20 bills.

The county attorney claims he [illegible] this to be his two weeks' salary for carrying on the agreement alleged to have been made here.

Sheriff Emery was elected by the Democrats of York County in 1908 and again in 1910. He was the first Democrat to be elected sheriff in years.

after a good meal than before one and does not a spell of very poor cooking at [illegible] if they are rich enough to employ the highest priced cook. On the other hand, in more modest circumstances a wife who can cook [illegible] by that I mean cook well [illegible] the rivalry of restaurant or club.

Good cooking does not mean expensive cooking. On the contrary.

Kitchen Economy

With the price of living [illegible] and [illegible] in the kitchen [illegible] the wife who can really cook learns [illegible] in using leftovers and [illegible] them tasty, and making excellent, appetizing dishes out of comparatively little [illegible]

I [illegible] believe that we French [illegible] who have the reputation of being a [illegible] owe our good spirits as well as our sound constitutions [illegible] excellent cooking which one finds [illegible] part of France.

Very little but the purest food products are to be had in France. The country is not so fertile in many ways as America, and vegetables [illegible] to be raised with more care. But there are no food adulterations of any kind to ruin one's stomach and digestive organs.

The celebrated dishes of France, like the bouillabaise or the cabbage soup of the Avergne and the pastry of Bearne, are excellent from the standpoint of palate and health.

They are not extravagant dishes [illegible] to the excellence of the [illegible] of such homely foods that the [illegible] owe their good health [illegible] digestion and their gay dispositions.

STUFFED ONIONS.

[illegible] four medium sized onions, [illegible] blanch for five minutes in boiling water [illegible] them off, drain and dry them. Take out the centre of the onion with a [illegible] funnel, but without cutting through [illegible]

[illegible]

When the onions are stuffed with this, cover [illegible] cheese and [illegible] top of [illegible] covered and set deep down over [illegible] a good spoonful of bouillon at the bottom. Serve on a small round platter or dish [illegible]

SWEETBREADS WITH PEAS.

Clean and freshen the sweetbreads, trim [illegible] slices of onions, a few grains of pepper [illegible] together with a [illegible] of parsley, celery, [illegible] Place the sweetbreads [illegible] a little butter. Cover [illegible] skim the grease, and when done, pour the grease off. Moisten with a little [illegible] Moisten again to half the height of the sweetbreads with good veal stock or stock [illegible] for a few minutes, and just before they are done take off the cover to brown the sweetbreads, basting them constantly. When done place on a platter and keep very hot. Strain the sauce and reduce to the consistancy desired and season to taste.

While cooking [illegible] sweetbreads, which should take from twenty-five to thirty minutes, prepare your peas. Boil them, [illegible] and [illegible]

Serve the sweetbreads arranged around the platter on toasted bread, very hot. Put the peas in the centre. [illegible] the rest separately.

Household Economy

How to Have the Best Cough Syrup and Save $2, by Making It at Home.

Cough medicines, as a rule, contain a large quantity of plain syrup. If you take one pint of granulated sugar, add ½ pint of warm water and stir about 2 minutes, you have as good syrup as money could buy.

If you will then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents' worth) in a pint bottle and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup, you will have as much [illegible] syrup as you [illegible] ready made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly.

And you will find it the best cough syrup you ever used—even in whooping cough. You can feel it take hold [illegible] stop [illegible] cough in 24 hours. It is just laxative enough, has a good tonic effect, and taste is pleasant. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

It is a splendid remedy, too, for whooping cough, croup, hoarseness, asthma, chest pains, etc.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in [illegible] and all the healing [illegible] No other preparation will work in this formula.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup [illegible] used [illegible] in the United States [illegible] plan has often [illegible] successfully.

A guaranty of [illegible] money promptly refunded goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

THE FIRST GRAY HAIR SIGN OF AGE, DON'T LOOK OLD BEFORE YOUR TIME

A harmless remedy, made from common garden sage, quickly restores gray hair to natural color. The care of the hair, to prevent it from losing its color and lustre, is just as important as to care for teeth to keep them from discoloring. Why spend money for cosmetics and creams to improve the complexion, and yet neglect your hair, when gray hair is even more conspicuous and suggestive of age than wrinkles or a poor complexion? Of the two, it is easier to preserve the natural color and beauty of the hair than it is to have a good complexion.

All that is necessary is the occasional use of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of common garden Sage and Sulphur, combined with other valuable remedies for dry, harsh, faded hair, dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. After a few applications of this simple, harmless remedy, your hair will gradually be restored to its natural color, in a short time the dandruff will be removed, and your hair will no longer come out, but will start to grow as Nature intended it should.

Don't neglect your hair, for it goes further than anything else to make or mar your good looks. You can buy this remedy at any drug store for fifty cents a bottle, and your druggist will give your money back if you are not satisfied after using. Purchase a bottle to-day. You will never regret it when you realize the difference it will make in your appearance.

Daysey Mayme and Her Folks

THE CHILDREN'S CONGRESS

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE.

THIS has been a [illegible] week in the Appleton home.

Lysander Jones, [illegible] efforts at self-tickling have [illegible] awakened his sense of humor, is [illegible] quietly to himself every evening [illegible] at work on a paper called "The Joy of Being Adam," which he will read [illegible] night to his pillow cushion ladies.

Mrs. Appleton is spending all her time at church attending Lenten services, and Daysey Mayme, with her soul awakened by this period of annual penance, is making a study of theological questions.

"No one these days," she said to a reporter to whom she reluctantly consented to show the advance sheets of her work, "is a plain Methodist, an unvarnished Baptist, a Presbyterian in the old fashioned way, or a Congregationalist without trimmings.

"We have all [illegible] new theories. In other words, most of our religion has been [illegible] modificated. I [illegible] making an exhaustive review of [illegible] that the seeker may know the [illegible] path.

[illegible] devotion of the [illegible] to schemes to [illegible] the world has [illegible] contagious, [illegible] Chauncey De Vere, aged ten, has [illegible] the spirit.

He has called a [illegible] Congress.

No such congress has ever sat in the history of the world, but Chauncey De Vere is satisfied that it is just what the present [illegible] and social conditions demand.

[illegible] mothers will [illegible] detain them at home. This [illegible] of parents' [illegible] will be [illegible] under the head of [illegible]

We will make an effort to shorten the [illegible] ten months to two weeks [illegible] half the time any [illegible] shall study [illegible]

[illegible] Does Mother's No Mean No. Are [illegible] a Necessity [illegible]

A committee [illegible] appointed to search for the lost fathers [illegible] will report at our next meeting. It is rumored that some mothers are forgetting that the [illegible] of Rights [illegible] the Rights [illegible] We will [illegible]

My paper will be [illegible] The Mother with a Heart and The Mother with a Theory: Which?' I will also devote some time to [illegible] says 'Don't' nineteen times an hour six days of the week and twenty-seven times an hour on Sunday. If she has failed to win the prize at bridge, her remarks on the sin of playing [illegible] are seven times as convincing. She likes us least when she is dressed up to go out, and we like her most when she has on her kitchen clothes and is making a pie.

[illegible] devoted to fathers. It was the consensus of opinion of the members of the committee appointed to handle that subject that the father in the home is a negligible quantity. Indeed, a majority of the delegates who are coming reported that they didn't know if they had fathers at all.

"An interesting hour is expected when one of our young lady delegates, age seven, will read a paper on 'My Fathers.' Her [illegible] married seven times, and her reminiscences regarding these men, how long each one stayed in the family, [illegible] habits, etc., will prove instructive to [illegible] who have several sets of parents."

Chauncey DeVere reached languidly for his cigarette case, indicating the interview was ended and that he wished to devote [illegible] to the matter that lay before him.

The Naturalness of Love

By Beatrice Fairfax

"THE SPRINGTIME OF LOVE"—FROM THE FAMOUS PAINTING BY THUMANN.

"[illegible] there [illegible] nothing half so sweet in this life [illegible] than the first consciousness of love [illegible] the first fluttering of its silken wings [illegible]"

THIS famous painting is famous for the story it tells.

The background with its appeal to lovers of nature; the strength and youth of the man; the grace and beauty of the woman, and the attire which makes the mind leap back to the idylic days when [illegible]

But it is nothing compared with the STORY the picture tells. It is the STORY that grips the heart, and causes a second look at the picture. A story of LOVE, and love is the heritage of every living being.

When a little girl is only a few months old, some one with a deep understanding of the hearts of maids, be they young or old, puts a doll in her arms.

She does not have to be TAUGHT to hold it tight to her heart. She does not have to be TAUGHT [illegible] solicitude for a doll is the head up. She does not have to be TAUGHT to LOVE it.

She loves it because LOVE is natural. It is the first emotion of life, and if the aged woman on her deathbed has rightly encouraged and fostered this [illegible] forgive her for a misspent life if it isn't.

The day comes when the little maid has [illegible] IMAGES of love, and her heart turns as naturally to the boy as to the doll a few years before.

She loves because it is her nature, a God-given nature of which she should be proud and never ashamed. She was loved because of her love for the doll. Her love for the boy is just as sincere, just as pure, just as innocent and just as holy.

It is a growth in the evolution of the sentiment which makes mother-love, the highest and most divine of all sentiment.

She loves a second boy, and a third, and there is nothing to be ashamed of if she loves a host.

"Love," said Bailey, "spends his all and still has store."

"How many times do I love, again?
Tell me how many beads there are
In a silver chain
Of evening rain
Unravelled from the trembling main
And [illegible] the eye of a yellow star—
So many times do I love again."

She reaches young womanhood still loving, and [illegible] misunderstood by the scoffers and the [illegible] who claim there is nothing in love if it blooms more than once.

They would compare this wonderful sentiment with the century plant that [illegible] nurtured and guarded and [illegible] magnifying glass and thermometer for ninety-nine years that it may in the hundredth year produce a few [illegible] blossoms.

If LOVE was a century plant, the world would stop moving. If LOVE were as charry of blossoms as these skeptics [illegible] who would have loved [illegible] your father, or your mother? Where would you be, and would you be at all?

The girl who dreams of her lover should be [illegible] in her dreams. To miss [illegible] to miss out of life life's greatest joy.

[illegible] the beginning of greater things. [illegible] of a happy today and a [illegible] It is all there is of [illegible]

Love [illegible] hath every bliss in store;
'Tis friendship, and 'tis something more.
Each other every wish they give.
Not to know love is not to live."

It is a completeness. To go through life without it is to only half live.

Do you admire the picture above? Then in your heart there is a tender sympathy for all maids in love, and, having this sympathy, you will never grow old. No perpetual youth is attainable without it. A loving interest in [illegible] and the [illegible] is a fountain of youth more efficacious than that found in a beauty parlor.

Look at the picture again, and let these words sing in your heart:

"And on her lover's arm she leant,
And round her waist she felt it fold,
And far across the hills they went
In that new world which is the old."

A Bachelor's Diary

No. 5—Josephine's Lack of Sympathy Makes the Bachelor Momentarily Mistrust Her

By MAX

FEBRUARY 11.—It is 2 a. m., and I have spent the entire evening here alone, finding none of the comfort [illegible] in my books and my pipe [illegible] times of late that when I am not with Josephine, I am usually alone. The boys used to come in and roost on the chairs and tables, and fill the room with talk and smoke, but I never see them any more.

They say there is no use coming; that I am seldom here of late. There may be something in that, but somehow I would have liked to have seen them tonight. I have a trouble I could tell them. Most of my troubles recently have been the kind I couldn't tell without getting too [illegible] this I have [illegible] poor Tom Jones' kid.

[illegible] when I had finished they would have said, "That's tough, old boy," or [illegible] or maybe, some of them would have given me a rough pat on the shoulder and said, "Cheer up, Max; [illegible]"

Men have a way of showing their sympathy that makes it real. They don't write sweet letters of condolence with a lot in it about The Beyond, and Divine Will. They could not write letters of condolence to save their lives, but they say a comforting thing, and MEAN it.

I don't [illegible] I would feel worse if it were my own little kid. He was such a manly little chap, and took such a fancy to me. I went there every Sunday for dinner, and he used to count the days, and tell his mother and father he loved Old Max best in the world next to them.

He was only five, but he had a hold on my heart that couldn't be measured by the years. He would stand at the window with his nose against the pane waiting for me, and when I left that precious little [illegible] the last vision I had on turning the corner.

I saw it on Sunday, and waved goodbye, and [illegible] he died, and when I next saw him it was through a coffin lid, with the same sweet, friendly smile on his face.

Poor Tom and his wife are all broken up. He was the only kid they had, and I used to tell them he was the only kid I had, too.

I stayed there four days, and when I went to Josephine after it was all over it was with the belief that I would get some word of comfort.

I tried to tell her how much the little fellow meant to me, and she looked cold and uninterested. When I had done, she said, holding her hand so she could get a good light on her diamond, "I am sorry you feel so badly. For my part I hate children."

I didn't stay long after that. I [illegible] felt as if I had shown a sore spot to the one I loved best, and it had been made worse with a blow.

I suppose Josephine can't help it. She has so much to do and the children in her [illegible] make so much more work for her. And they are not nice children like poor Tom's kid. I heard one of Josephine's brothers tell her the other day that she was a "lazy lout." Nice words for a boy to use to a sister who does all the work! I know she does it, because she told me so.

When I called there unexpectedly the other morning I had to wait a half hour, and she said when she came in that she couldn't come any sooner because she had her hands in the dough.

"Oh! what a whopper! You were sitting around doing nothing with your hair in curl papers!" her young sister called from the next room.

Poor Josephine! She gets so little appreciation from her brothers and sisters it is no wonder she hates children. It will be different when—oh, well I must stop dreaming and go to bed.

Somehow I could sleep better if I could forget about the poor Tom Joneses. I can't tell them how sorry I am. I just go up there and take Mrs. Jones roses and candy, and have been twice to take her and Tom for a ride, but I am such a clumsy blunderer I have never told them yet how the little fellow's death cuts me. I just sit around and take in all the emptiness of the house, and feel as if I want to get away as quick as I can before I break down and howl.

Now, if Josephine understood she could say some such pretty, comforting little things. Josephine is a genius in that way when she wants to be.

February 14.—I haven't been to see Josephine for three days. She [illegible] let me come to-day [illegible] is going to [illegible] on out. [illegible] She says she wants to marry one of them [illegible]

Sundays will be [illegible] for me here after [illegible] the windows [illegible] got mad at me the other night because I wouldn't talk about anything else.

She had a new dress, and she said I might at least notice it.

I.—THE RECOGNITION.

Rosamond's anguished heart gives a great leap as she sees among the convicts her own Claude Eclaire. She knows that he has been unjustly put in prison through the machinations of the unscrupulous Desmond, and only that she happened in visit the prison as one of the quartet he would undoubtedly have had to spend his life behind the bars.

II.—OBSERVED.

With her heart now filled with hope, Rosamond hurries through the streets to the governor's house. Knowing the justice of her cause, she does not doubt that the official will quickly grant an order of release for her heroic lover.

But the barber to shave Claude's head, so as to really Desmond has seen from the window disguise him as much as possible. With the direction taken by Rosamond, and guesses what her purpose is.

III.—A CRUEL PLAN.

Desmond, having guessed Rosamond's object, loses no time in preparing to foil the brave girl. He hastens to the jail, where he is in league with the corrupt officials, and hurriedly gets the prison the razor so close to is to seek the hero does not dare to protest vigorously.

IV.—PUTTING ON THE BANDAGES.

To disguise Claude still further Desmond induces the prison hospital attendants to bandage up the prisoner, so that he can not move hand or foot and cannot speak. Thus swathed, Claude could not be recognized by the keenest eyes, and Desmond hopes that he cannot be identified when the pardon is brought for him.

V.—"HERE'S THE PARDON."

Urging the coolies pulling her rickshaw to run at their top speed, Rosamond dashes up to the prison gates with the governor's order for the release of her unjustly imprisoned hero. She hopes that she will not be too late, and that Claude has not been spirited away to some other prison, where he would be out of her reach forever.

VI.—WHO IS HE?

Desmond's plan has proven successful so far, for when Rosamond demands that convict 99 be relieved of the bandages round his face the prison authorities refuse her request, as being against the rules. And with all the bandages on even her keen eyes are unable to identify her lover. Tomorrow's pictures show her next plan.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; LATEST FINANCIAL NEWS

STATE STREET, March 27.—Midday—When the Boston market opened today there was an active demand for copper shares and Lake, North Butte, Indiana and East Butte went higher. Lake gained a point in the first five minutes. Early transactions in North Butte sent it up 1½. Directors have declared a quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share on this stock. This is 10 cents more than the dividend of three months ago. The 40 cents dividend is to be paid April 20. Copper Range sold higher, as did Old Dominion, Shannon, Mayflower and Hancock. Calumet & Arizona and Smelting were fractionally lower at the end of the first hour.

Among the industrials, American Telephone was down a trifle in early trading, while Swift & Co. sold up to 109, a one point gain.

In New York the market tone was strong on the whole, with some specialties going much higher. Amalgamated and Utah Copper both advanced before noon time. Reading, Union Pacific and Missouri Pacific and Canadian Pacific were strong in the railway list. Bear driving against Steel weakened it some, but not materially.

Kidder, Peabody & Co. today reduced sterling exchange rates ¼c. all around.

New York and London Markets.

Consolidated Gas was a strong feature at the New York opening today, gaining a point offhand. It is believed by most stock buyers that there is going to be a coal strike with prices so high for anthracite fuel that most householders will burn gas instead. A number of other specialties were also higher. Interborough Metropolitan issues also advanced.

Wall Street again hears that Missouri Pacific is being accumulated by big banking interests. It rose half a point at the getaway. Reading also was strong in initial dealings, going ⅜ higher and being promptly sold for speculative profits and sagging as quickly as it ascended. Steel opened ¼ higher and lost this gain and ⅜ additional. Union Pacific sold lower, and Amalgamated and American Smelting went down, although the latter recovered and advanced almost immediately. Goldman, Sachs & Co. are shipping $250,000 in gold to South America. The Curb was steady.

The London market was irregular during the first half of the day there, but home rails and underground issues continued buoyant. Americans and Canadian Pacific were quite strong, while foreigners and mines were weary. Rio Tintos were ⅛ lower at 77¾. The Rio Tinto semi-annual dividend rate just declared is 30s, and it was 22s. 6d. for the previous half year.

De Beers went down 1 1-16 to 19 13-16.

Status of Copper Metal Market.

Talk of copper metal at 16 cents is stronger with the quotation at 15½. The rise in the price has been so rapid and there is so much being said about the market being in a "runaway" condition that sanguine persons expect further, if not immediate, jumps in quotations. Foreign buying was heavy yesterday, and domestic consumers who are afraid the red metal is going much higher tried to get their needs supplied before any further advance took place. The sellers have the whip hand in the situation. Regarding it the New York Sun says:

"In their effort to get supplies the consuming interests have apparently lost sight of the fact that mine production has thus far been greatly in excess of last year. For instance, output from the leading mines of the United States in February approximated 89,000,000 pounds, comparing with 57,000,000 pounds a year ago, while the production for the first two months of 1912 totaled 179,000,000 pounds, against 148,000,000 pounds in the same period of last year, a gain of 31,000,000 pounds. Sooner or later the increased mine output must reveal itself in the monthly statement of the Copper Producers' Association, for the country's refined yield, which takes into consideration imports, has been too low when mine figures are taken into consideration."

It is said in New York that Boston houses were sellers of copper shares there yesterday and that considerable Calumet & Hecla was sold in Boston for Wall street account.

Spot copper was unchanged in quotation at £68 5s. when the London market opened today, but futures were up 1s. 3d. at £69 2s. 6d. The market was steady.

There was no little demand for copper shares in New York yesterday. Out of total sales of 893,915 shares, Amalgamated, American Smelting and Utah Copper were dealt in to the aggregate of 134,950. There were 79,500 shares of Amalgamated sold, 33,700 of Smelting and 27,750 of Utah Copper.

Bears Use Steel for Target.

Bears thought a reaction was due in the big market yesterday and went about producing it, with Steel common as the most conspicuous target. They got the price more than two points lower than Monday's high, but at the close it was only ¾ lower for the day. It had a lot of support in the late trading and the big short interest in this issue was undoubtedly largely increased before the close. Steel common was heavily sold in London before the New York market opened.

By some observers of industrial conditions it is thought that in view of general business the steel manufacturers, including the greatest of all, have increased present plant capacity too much in ratio to demand. Prices are low and the orders for all kinds of products have been placed on a very conservative basis. The steel producers are all ready, however, for the boom which appears to be due. Railroad building in Canada for the near future will be on a big scale and ought to result in big steel and iron consumption there. The plans of the Canadian Pacific, the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Northern roads call for the expenditure of about $115,000,000 within a few months.

When Will the Newspaper Editors of the Country Unite for Effective Work?

When, Especially, Will the Nation's COUNTRY EDITORS Hold Great Conventions for the Public Benefit and Their Own?

Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Examiner

This country begins to realize that it must soon think AS A NATION. And it realizes that the national thinking must deal with the great problems that confront a nation such as ours, stretching from ocean to ocean and across the Pacific, directing the activities of ninety millions of human beings bound eventually to reach the heights of civilization or the miserable depths of failure.

When the time comes for thinking on a national scale and above the level of bank deposits, dividends and trust company "surplus" the newspapers of this country, and especially THE COUNTRY NEWSPAPERS THAT REALLY EDUCATE AND DIRECT THE COUNTRY, will begin their important work.

The man who talks of revolution in America is a criminal. There is no more reason or excuse for violence between classes than between individuals, since we all know how to read and can reason.

The editors of this country—the "local editors" talking in every home—will prove to be developers of thought and safeguards of good order, while at the same time protecting the interests and the rights of organized men as against organized money, and thus making the nation what it should be—a land inhabited by happy and contented human beings, not a nation with a few overfed at the top and, below, millions worried.

Because the editors can do the work that this country needs, the important problem of this day, next to establishing the PROSPERITY and power of the individual local editor, is the organizing of editors in great deliberative bodies.

Public welfare depends first of all upon the people's THOUGHT. And to an extent that is not appreciated the people THINK what the editors of the country make them think.

The editor possesses the power of suggestion and the very great power of REPETITION.

The topics, broad or narrow, that occupy and interest the editor must occupy the thoughts of his readers.

If an editor devotes his best energies to descriptions of prize-fighting and crimes, prize-fighting and crime must loom big in the minds of his readers.

If his best thought is given to scientific discovery, to events that are worth while if he looks out upon the world as a citizen of the world, not neglecting the inferior kinds of news that feeble human nature craves, his readers will have the broad-minded view.

Our bodies are what we EAT.

Our minds are what we READ.

This country would be better off if it had fewer cooks that breed dyspepsia.

It would be better off if it had fewer editors, big and little, that breed monotony of thought or thought not worth while.

The editor decides what the public shall read. What the public reads makes the public mind.

Therefore, the editors, not only as individuals, but in large bodies, should deliberate, consult and earnestly discuss every detail affecting their great profession, the greatest in the world today so far as influencing human beings goes—greater even than that of the school teachers, immeasurably greater than that of all lawmakers and politicians.

The editors of the United States, and more especially the so-called local editors or country editors, should combine more and more in gatherings, big and little, combining first for their own protection, according to the law that governs human action, and ultimately, having achieved power through self-protection, using their combination for the public good.

The greatest thing in the United States ought to be a convention held every two or four years which would gather in one of the big cities not fewer than 15,000 editors of the United States.

This great national convention of editors should begin with editorial associations in counties, in Congressional districts, then in the State, and finally throughout the nation, as has been suggested by Mr. A. B. Jordan, editor of the Herald, of Dillon, S. C.

There has never been gathered in the history of the world a body as influential, as great in useful possibilities, as would be such a great convention of the editors of the country.

Such a gathering would be attended and addressed by every man in the United States sufficiently important to be invited. Not one would fail to respond eagerly, from the President of the United States and the judges of the Supreme Court down, for not one could afford to neglect opportunity to address a body so far-reaching in influence.

At first the miscalled "big editors" of the big cities—men who are often provincial megalomaniacs mistaking their commercial prosperity for individual greatness—would take little interest in the gatherings and conventions of the country editors.

But soon the whole nation would know that such a gathering would be the most important event in the nation. And the men capable of making themselves leaders in such a body would be the great men of power and influence in the United States.

It is sincerely to be hoped that the men will be found to carry out the idea of editorial co-operation which has been suggested from time to time by many of the country's thoughtful newspaper men.

Lawyers meet in their powerful associations, and we know only too well that their close co-operation and constant working for their own advancement have given them a power and an influence greater than those which they ought to have. The tricky and conscienceless corporation lawyer teaching the big man to evade laws or helping him to construe them is more powerful than any legal jackal should be.

Politicians have their meetings and conventions. And they keep fat and prosperous—very fat, indeed, considering how little they do to earn the fat.

Manufacturers of all kinds, insurance men, bankers, doctors, gather in conventions and profit by such gatherings.

The newspaper men of the land almost alone remain in isolation, each at his desk working apart from the others.

Editors work almost invariably at cross purposes, attacking rather than helping each other, promoting misunderstanding, keeping their profession secondary in the minds of the public by their own lack of harmony, and neglecting utterly the great force of united action.

What man will be the organizer and the leading force in the construction of the great local and national editorial association?

That man, whoever he may be, will be a benefactor of the newspaper profession and an infinitely greater benefactor of the people as a whole.

It is one thing, and a comparatively simple thing, for a convention of manufacturers to decide what the people shall use or eat or wear, for a convention of politicians to decide whom the people shall nominate and hire. It would be an infinitely greater thing for the working newspaper men of the country, united, to decide what the people shall THINK, what shall be the intellectual influences brought to bear upon the thinking machinery of 90,000,000 of human beings.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox —ON— Our Efforts to Make Others Happy and Simpler Method of Gaining the Result

MY SHIPS.

If all the ships I have at sea
Should come a-sailing home to me,
Ah, well! the harbor could not hold
So many sails as there would be
If all my ships came in from sea.

If half my ships came home from sea
And brought their precious freight to me,
Ah, well! I should have wealth as great
As any king who sits in state—
So rich the treasures that would be
In half my ships now out at sea.

If just one ship I have at sea
Should come a-sailing home to me,
Ah, well! the storm-clouds then might frown;
For if the others all went down,
Still rich and proud and glad I'd be
If that one ship came back to me.

If that one ship went down at sea,
And all the others came to me,
Weighed down with gems and wealth untold,
With glory, honors, riches, gold,
The poorest soul on earth I'd be
If that one ship came not to me.

O skies, be calm! O winds, blow free—
Blow all my ships safe home to me!
But if thou sendest some a-wrack,
To never more come sailing back,
Send any—all that skim the sea,
But bring my love-ship home to me.

FOR what are you striving and working?

Why do you rise in the morning, and hurry through your breakfast, and rush away to your office or shop or other place of business?

In order to make a living, you will answer.

But back of making a living, there is a purpose in each heart; otherwise the monotony of merely making a living would cause the earth to become one great Asylum for the insane.

The real object of every life is to make some other life happy.

The utterly selfish human being is seldom found.

Because such extreme selfishness is abnormal and cannot long exist.

Many a man seems selfish who is really doing selfish things with an idea of producing happiness for those who are dear to him.

He has not yet learned that no lasting benefit or pleasure can be bestowed upon anyone if the means by which it is obtained are lawless or mean or criminal.

There are hundreds of men working behind prison bars today who earned their stripes by just such mistaken methods; trying to give happiness to those they loved by breaking moral laws.

Instead they gave life-long sorrow and shame to their dear ones.

Whatever you are about today, whatever your ambition may be, it is certainly secondary to the desire you have to make someone proud and happy.

Even thought you are a crusty bachelor, this is nevertheless true.

Deep in your heart you have an ideal of a home life; for that is the natural life and the ideal lasts while life lasts.

But while you give the greater part of the twenty-four hours to striving after success in order that those you love shall be comfortable and happy, are you quite sure that you are not neglecting some of the simpler methods of giving happiness?

Take a little more time at your meals.

That is an hour which ought to mean pleasure and sociability and companionship. An hour which should be anticipated and remembered. Are you making it such? Do you try to think of pleasing and entertaining topics to talk about at the table?

There is a possibility that you could, at times, reach home earlier than you do.

It would mean a great deal to your family, perhaps, if you did give an extra half hour at home (taking it for granted that you went home in an amiable and affectionate state of mind).

You used to do these things doubtless in the days of courtship and honeymooning. Why not now?

If you are so worn out every evening that you must go to sleep right after dinner, and never give any time to social pleasures, then you are failing in your chief ambition to make those you love happy.

Sociability is a part of happiness in a civilized community. Think about these things a bit.

Life is rushing by, and "what is it all when all is done" if we do not give happiness and companionship to those dear to us?

Girl Babies of the Poor Are an Asset Now, Not a Liability

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

NOT more than a generation ago when that famous jokebird, the stork, left girl after girl at the door of a poor man, his friends were greatly concerned.

"Poor Brown," they said. "Another girl! How ever is he going to support them?"

"I see poor Brown has another daughter." Other friends would say: "I am afraid it's the poorfarm for Brown with all those girls to marry off."

In the darkened room where the joke-bird had deposited its burden, there was lying a woman to whose physical weariness and pain there was added the knowledge that she had committed a grave offence; She had presented her husband with ANOTHER GIRL!

Those who are impartial judges of the crimes of the sexes know that a woman is not to blame for the sex of her children, but the father, in his first hours of rage and disappointment, is not a reasoning creature.

He looks with scorn at the fourth or fifth gift of the jokebird because it is ANOTHER GIRL, or he refuses to look at it at all. And in his heart there is resentment toward the woman who bore it.

Another girl not more than a generation ago meant another burden; another member of the family to feed and clothe until some man would come along an take her off her father's hands. She meant ANOTHER LIABILITY.

The sentiment regarding girls has undergone a change. The Brown of today who has daughter after daughter is congratulated, and the pain-racked woman who bears them no longer assumes an apologetic attitude toward their father.

She doesn't say, "I'm sorry, but I couldn't help it."

She forgets her pain in her pride as she shows the little pink morsel to its father. "Another daughter!" she exclaims. "One more to care for us when we are old."

And that is what the daughters are doing these days. They care for themselves earlier than their brothers, and they do more. They care for their parents in their old age.

They are big sisters with protecting arms for the children next in line, and little mothers for the babies. They are mother's best help in their days at home, and her greatest financial resource when they go out and earn money.

They are no longer LIABILITIES. They are ASSETS. The best assets of the home!

The transformation from the girl to whom were doled out the clothes and pennies grudgingly, to the girl who earns the clothes and the dollars for herself, has been a speedy one, so speedy she does not yet realize what a power she has become beyond her father's front door.

She is filling every important position once monopolized by man. She is president of a bank, mayor of a city, at the head of the largest commercial organizations; filling offices of trust with intelligence and ability.

She is doing more: When she goes out among men to fight side by side with them she carries with her the memory of the needs of the home. She is never so engrossed in greed for power, or wealth, or position, that she forgets she is a DAUGHTER.

She never loses the maternal instinct, an instinct which often reaches its greatest development in the women who are never mothers save as the years make them mothers to their own parents, to their brothers and sisters, and to every living creature in need of comfort and love.

The Lock

By MINNA IRVING

I MET a maiden fresh and fair;
Her brow was like the snow,
Her starry eyes were velvet-dark,
Her voice was sweet and low.
Upon her shapely head a wealth
Of dusky tresses grew,
And lo! she had a little pom
That matched their jetty hue.

I begged her for a silken curl;
To my intense delight
At last she sent me one by mail;
I kissed it day and night.
We quarreled, and she asked for all
Her letters back, and wrote:
"But you may keep the lock of hair,
'Twas clipped from Fido's coat."

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

PA & Ma & me went to a show last nite. Ma wanted to go to the show because she liked it, & Pa wanted to go to the show because Ma sed Cuma on, you. So we went.

On our way to see the show, I had a dream last nite. Ma sed, I dreemed that I had rote a song. It went like this:

A fair yung wife was standing on Boston's grutest street,
Her husband was a brijant man,
but seldom he did eat.
His fair yung wife did face him at the close of that sad day.
She looked, upon him thoughtfully,
& these words she did say:
CHORUS:
A liver can't live long on White Way
It hasn't got no chance at all;
Your liver is your pard, but in time
it will get hard,
And it will crook you in the spring-time or the fall.
Stomachs and livers have a lot of patience,
They're always loyal and they're always true,
But a liver can't live long on White Way
And that's the surest thing you ever knew.

I happen to have sole that song myself, sed Ma, & how do you like it?

I dount like it at all, sed Pa. No wonder that you dreemed that you rote it. If you ever woke up & rote a thing like that you wod think that you had been thru a bitemare. But cum on, let us see the show.

When we was waiting to let Pa buy our seets Ma told me about a gurl freend that she had in the show. Ma told me that she was the brightest girl in there class at skool. She was so brite, sed Ma to me, that she cud bound the Issues of Panama at a single bound, Ma sed. She is one of the sweetest little gurls that ever lived, sed Ma. Wen you grow up, Bobbie, it will be the deerest wish of my life to have you marry a gurl like her.

But after we had went into the show & Pa saw Ma's gurl freend, Ma acted kind of differnt, beekuss Pa raved too much, Ma sed, beeni she the sweetest thing ever, sed Pa. I cud marry a gurl like that in a second, Pa sed. I wud throw a ring onto her finger as fast as Theodore Roosevelt threw his hat into the ring, Pa sed. I know a thousand wen I see one, Pa sed. Look at her, Bobbie, sed Pa, isent she a cutey?

I dount think she is so pritty, sed Ma.

I think wimmen is funny, thay aint very good freends to eech other wen us men iute here.

Home, Sweet Home

By JACOB J. LEIBSON

THEY'VE rounded up the furniture
And stacked it in a heap.
On twenty chairs they've piled the bed
In which I used to sleep.

The narrow realms of hallway
They have barricaded, too;
I move three dozen picture frames
To win a passage through.

The woodwork is resplendent
In its coat of new shellac,
And while it dries there's not a place
To rest my weary back.

There's but one place accessible—
The brass knob on the door.
My meals I find upon a shelf;
My bed's the kitchen floor.

I go in search of comfort,
But I'm dragged from my retreat
And packed right off into the yard
With fifteen rugs to beat.

I envy every Eskimo;
I fear not Winter's pains.
I'd change with any Arab
Or a Piute on the plains.

I'd be a base barbarian
And live in any clime,
Where there are no rugs to punish
And they know no cleaning time.

Oh, cleaning days arouse in me
A strong desire to roam,
For I realize the poet's words:
"There is no place like home."
